King May Be Recalled as Rebels Threaten Athens

THREE COUNTRIES BOLSTER GUARDS AT BORDER POINTS

Roar of Artillery, Machine Guns and Rifles Bears Evidence of Heavy Fighting in Macedonia Territory.

LOYALISTS' CLAIM OF VICTORY DENIED

Population of Sieged City Reported Rushing En Masse to Revolvers' Side.

By the Associated Press.

The rumble of big guns shook the Balkans, battle ground of the centuries, Thursday as the world watched anxiously Greece's desperate efforts to put down her ninth and most serious revolt in 20 years.

A report that King George might be recalled from exile to save the situation from chaos was heard simultaneously with reports that the rebels were threatening to bombard Athens itself unless the government capitulated.

At the same time border points listened to the roar of artillery, machine guns and rifles, evidence of heavy fighting in Macedonia. An Athens dispatch to Paris said the royalists completely routed the rebels killing 600, wounding 2,000 and capturing 700.

Conflicting with that were dispatches from the Greek-Bulgarian border saying the population of Macedonia, long eager for autonomy, was rushing en masse to the rebel side.

As three Greek islands surrendered to the rebel fleet, French and British warships dropped anchor at Piraeus, port of Athens, and consuls of the two nations went there to protect their nationals.

Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Turkey continued strengthening their border guards, the Slav kingdom sending scouting planes over the battle lines to determine the insurgents' strength.

At Geneva the Turkish and Bulgarian delegates exchanged accusations of war preparations.

A dispatch from Rome said Italy was following the Greek situation "with great interest, studying what measures it may be necessary to take to protect Italian interests."

Several score Americans reside in the war-torn territory, some 25 or 30 of them in Macedonia, where fighting is fiercest.

EXILED KING OF GREECE MAY BE RECALLED

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.)

ATHENS, March 7.—(P)—A revolt spreading swiftly over land and sea apparently threatened Athens itself tonight as reports were heard that the desperate Greek government might call ex-King George back to his vacant throne.

As three Greek islands—Samos, Chios and Mytilene—struck the loyal colors to the rebels' sea forces, reports reaching this frontier town said Admiral Demestichos, commander of the rebel fleet, wireless ultimatum to the Greek cabinet demanding its surrender on penalty of bombarding Piraeus, port of Athens.

Rebels Threaten Athens Port

Reports reaching the Greek-Yugoslav frontier said that Admiral Demestichos, commanding the rebel fleet, had wirelessed the Greek cabinet that he would bombard Piraeus, the port of Athens, unless the government capitulated. A British battleship and a French destroyer are in the port. Meantime the rebels showed no signs of surrender and loyal government troops were driving through the Struma river valley. Map shows the area where the rebels are concentrated and the location of the port. Associated Press map.

HUEY TURNS FIRE ON JOHNSON, F. D. R. 20 MILLION ADDED TO ARMY MEASURE

Kingfish Says Waiters Have Changed But Cooks Are Same.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—(P)—Opening a floodgate of invective, Senator Huey P. Long tonight asserted that the White House had "declared war" on him and that the "lead-off" man had been Hugh S. Johnson, under whom the NRA "became such a national scandal that Roosevelt had to let Johnson slide out as the scapegoat."

Long made his assertions in a radio address in answer to a speech delivered by Johnson last Monday night. In it the former NRA chief called the Louisiana Senator a "mad pig" and a "mad pig" who "was appealing to the 'lunatic fringe' of the population."

Calling out his own choicest phrases Long tonight said his "respects" not only to Johnson, but to others of his opposition and the New Deal as well. But it was at Johnson that he leveled at the outset.

"The late and lamented, the pampered ex-crown prince, General Hugh S. Johnson," he began, "one of those who were appealing to the 'lunatic fringe' of the population, and who, at the end of his control over and dismissal from the NRA, pronounced it 'as dead as a doornail.'"

SENATORS OPPOSE RICHBERG'S PLANS ON EXTENDING NRA

Code Director's Recommendations Made To Justify National Racket, Says Republican Nye.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—(P)—Immediate rumblings of senatorial protests left an aura of doubt tonight around the future of the administration's new 17-point plan for a two-year extension of NRA in a form that would code only those industries engaged in interstate commerce.

A pitiful comment from Senator King, democrat, Utah, that the "recommendations for modification are very good but they don't go far enough" was one of the first reactions. In fact, a two-hour exposition of the administration plan today by Donald Richberg, stirred but little outward senate enthusiasm.

Several of these same critics at once announced they would press forward their move to abolish the recovery administration and transfer its functions to the federal trade commission.

Richberg Questioned.

Fifteen senators sat in a semi-circle around Richberg, director of the national emergency council, the first week in the senate finance committee's inquiry into NRA. Anxious to obtain authoritative word of the administration's plans for extending the present law, they listened and then questioned.

His outstanding recommendation, in a long prepared statement, was that codes should be "limited to those trades and industries actually engaged in interstate commerce, or affecting it so substantially that the establishment and enforcement of standards of fair competition therein are necessary for the protection of interstate commerce."

This brought a discussion of what industries might be considered as coming within that definition. Finally Senator Hastings, republican, Delaware, protested that it was "difficult to find any business not in interstate commerce under your definition."

Richberg then noted the service trades as examples. Still not satisfied, the committee asked him to prepare a list of codes which he proposed.

Other Recommendations.

Richberg's other chief recommendations, in a list of 17 principles upon which he said there had been general agreement, included:

Extension of the act "substantially in the present form for two years."

Retention of present code machinery "but with express restriction upon the exercise of any public authority by any private body."

Inclusion in codes of clear and practical definitions and prohibitions of monopolies and monopolistic practices, but provision for control of natural resources through regulating output.

That for the president to impose limited codes governing maximum hours, minimum wages, notoriously unfair business practices, prevention of waste in natural resources, production of information necessary to the public interest.

Authorization for the use of insignia and labels, such as the Buy U. S. Goods label, whereby consumers may assist in supporting the standards of fair competition.

Limitation of exemptions from the anti-trust law to cases in which the act had been written in compliance with the anti-monopoly requirements of the act.

Extension of Section 7-A.

CAMPBELL ROLLS TO NEW RECORD OF 276.816 M.P.H.

Intrepid Englishman Grazes Death When He Hits Bump and Tires All But Blow Out.

(Daytona Beach, Fla., March 7)

WASHINGTON, March 7.—(P)—Sir Malcolm Campbell, prince of speed, hunched his thunder wagon to a streak of lightning today and roared down Daytona's golden sands to a new world automobile speed record—276.816 miles an hour.

It was far short of the 300-mile goal he has set for himself and seven-ton Bluebird, his land rocket, but it was 4.708 miles an hour swifter than the 272.108 mile average he traveled establishing the old mark here two years ago.

It was an unexpected attempt, the result of a last-minute decision to wait no longer for the sands to smooth to the perfection needed for 300 miles an hour. The result left him happy, but slightly shaken from one narrow escape he had shortly after thundering through the measured mile on the return trip.

A bump there almost threw the steering wheel from his hands, sent the car careening high on the beach until the tires were just skimming the edge of the deadly soft sands. With a terrific effort the 50-year-old Englishman wrestled the wheel back, skidded to the safety of the hard sands, and was away to the end of the run and the new record.

May Try Again.

"I haven't decided yet whether to stay and try to lift the record higher," Campbell said as he rode back down the beach in the cockpit of the 2,500-horsepower monster while 50,000, lining the eleven and one-half mile course cheered the length of the way.

"I won't decide that until I have a chance to think things over."

The run today, though only slightly above his old record, was as dangerous as any he has made here—and every time he has taken Bluebird to the beach during this venture something always has happened.

First his cowl broke loose and carbon monoxide fumes nearly gassed him as exhaust flames flicked at his legs. Then he was nearly thrown from the car on a test run in which he hit a one-way speed of 270. Today it was one gigantic swerve, and his tires.

He stood and stared in amazement at the racing cords on old Bluebird as he looked the car over in front of the timing tower when it was all over. The smooth rubber surface of all six tires—two on front, four on back—was

Douglasville Killing Confessed by Negro

DOUGLASVILLE, Ga., March 7. Sheriff Mac Abernethy tonight announced that Eddie B. Bowen, 22-year-old negro, had confessed the killing two weeks ago of Joe Carroll, of Carrollton, in a robbery attempt here.

Abernethy said that Bowen had implicated Clinton Morris, another negro, but admitted he did the actual shooting. Both were held in the county jail.

Bowen was arrested early today on suspicion. Authorities said he previously had served a chain gang sentence. Bowen also told authorities that he had committed four burglaries of homes in the city in recent weeks.

Senate Filibuster in Action

Here's an action picture of the one-man filibuster conducted in the senate Thursday by Senator Frank H. Dennis, of Eatonton, a distant cousin of Governor Talmadge, who spoke for nearly three hours to thwart a vote on the governor's plan to substitute a 10-mill over all tax system for the various tax exemption and elimination proposals offered in the legislature. Senator Dennis finally yielded the floor and a limit on debate is expected to be voted today, ruling out a possible recurrence of the filibuster. Staff photo by George Cornett.

WALLACE EXEMPTS FATE OF DUDLEY TWO-BALE FARMS IN JURY'S HANDS

Small Growers Will Not Be Required To Adhere To Bankhead Act.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—(P)—Small farms producing two bales or less of cotton were exempted today by Secretary Wallace from provisions of the Bankhead production control act.

The administration recently announced the distribution of this quota among the various cotton states and declared today that county quotas will be announced within a short week.

Cotton producers were urged immediately to submit applications to community committees for their pro rata shares of the county quotas. Community committees after receiving such applications will make any necessary readjustments and submit the applications to the county committees for use in apportioning county totals.

Cully A. Cobb, director of the cotton division, was unable to say whether the two-bale exemption total would be taken out of state quotas before they are distributed among counties, deducted from state reserves, or subtracted from county allotments after they have been distributed.

"County allotments will be made as before without reference to the two-bale exemption," he said.

It was learned from other sources, however, that the number of bales necessary to cover the exemptions will be taken out of last year's applications for allotments in proportion to be determined after applications have been received in each county.

Cobb declared they could not estimate at present the total number of bales which will be required for the exemptions. A study is being made of last year's applications for allotments to determine this figure but it was explained that the estimate would be somewhat inaccurate pending submission of 1935 applications.

Mother and Daughter Are Burned to Death

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., March 7.—(P)—A mother and her daughter were burned to death when fire swept the Harding apartments, early today, driving 200 residents into the street. Several firemen were overcome and a score of persons were trapped on the third floor for 30 minutes.

The dead: Miss Janet Roff, 23, nurse at the Bridgeport hospital, and Mrs. Nellie Roff, her mother.

An 80-year-old woman, crippled by paralysis, was overlooked on the second floor, and lay helpless in her gas and smoke-filled room for three-quarters of an hour, before neighbors realized she was not among those carried out. Two firemen fought their way through the flame and smoke-filled corridors to the room and removed her safely to the street in a chair.

SENATOR SPEAKS ALMOST 5 HOURS IN ONE-MAN WAR

Talmadge Proposal To Limit All Tax Levies Is Halted by Lone Campaigner, Who Will Renew Fight Today.

STERILIZATION ACT ENACTED BY HOUSE

Bill Will Permit Sterilization of Habitual Criminals, Insane and Feeble Minded Persons.

A one-man filibuster conducted by Senator Frank H. Dennis, of Eatonton, a distant cousin of the chief executive Thursday halted, temporarily at least, Governor Talmadge's plan to substitute for several ad valorem tax exemption and abolition proposals, a 10-mill limitation on all levies, state, county and cities.

Senator Dennis got the floor shortly before time for the senate to recess for luncheon and began to talk, announcing he would not relinquish the floor until the senate had agreed to support his plan for homestead exemptions, a plan approved by the house but defeated in the senate several days ago because it failed to get a two-thirds vote.

Two and a half hours after he began talking, Senator Dennis unexpectedly announced he was through and took his seat. By that time all but about a dozen senators had left the capitol. There being no quorum present no business could be transacted.

Meanwhile the house passed a number of important measures, including the sterilization bill advocated by Chairman E. E. Lindsey, of the state board of control, and a bill by Representative Roy T. Harris, of Richmond county, to ream the system of collecting gasoline taxes, a measure designed to eliminate bootlegging in gasoline inasmuch as it prohibits hauling and transfer of gasoline by wholesalers at night.

May Limit Debate.

Senator Dennis announced at the conclusion of his "speech" Thursday that he would again seek the floor today to further thwart action on the Talmadge proposal, which appeared certain of adoption by the senate, Senate President Charles D. Redwine would not say definitely that such a rule would be put on but he declared that "it is customary near the end of a legislative session to limit debate."

A limit on debate would eliminate any possibility of filibustering.

The move to take the tax exemption matter from the bottom of the calendar and make it a special and continuing order of business was launched by Senator Fred Scott, of Thomas county, the floor leader and joined by a number of Talmadge adherents after they had been hurriedly summoned to the governor's office for conferences with the chief executive.

At first it was understood the governor wanted the Pope-Rawlin's substitute to the homestead exemption

Jurors Fail To Agree In Trial of Collins

MIAMI, Fla., March 7.—(P)—Unable to reach a verdict after deliberating nearly 24 hours, a six-man criminal court jury, trying suspended Judge E. C. Collins on bribery-taking and embezzlement charges, was discharged today by presiding Judge Jefferson B. Brown.

Collins, immediate past president of the Florida Baptist Association, was charged specifically with accepting and converting to his own use $270 from J. W. Davis, Jenison, Ala., farmer, for the release of Davis' son from an automobile theft sentence.

McAdoo Supports Position. Support for his position came from Senator McAdoo, democrat, California. "Unless we want to continue to be a boob nation," the California said, "we will not hesitate to make this increase in the army. It is justified by the wisdom and the necessities of national defense."

An attempt by Senator Clark, democrat, Missouri, to have the proposed 40 per cent increase in the strength of the standing army taken out of the bill was defeated. The point was then made that there was no provision in the bill for financing the addition.

Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, contended there were provisions for meeting the cost but he finally submitted the amendment authorizing the additional $20,000,000 to the bill to finance the increase in the army.

The sum was what was estimated by the war department as necessary although Senator Clark protested it covered only wages, leaving subsistence, housing and equipment expense to be raised from other sources.

Declarations that Japan planned no attack against the United States, also were heard during the discussion. "We have no foes," said Senator King, democrat, Utah. "I do not regard the condition (in Japan) as dangerous to the United States. I do not agree with the loud lamentation we have heard today. Japan has no hostile feeling toward the United States. She seeks our friendship."

Declaring he saw no danger of conflict with Great Britain or Japan, the sum was what was estimated by the war department as necessary although Senator Clark protested it covered only wages, leaving subsistence, housing and equipment expense to be raised from other sources.

TALMADGE JR. ATONES FOR RAP AT HUEY LONG

NEW ORLEANS, March 7.—(AP)—Herman Talmadge, son of Governor Eugene Talmadge, of Georgia, took a few verbal slams at Senator Huey

P. Long in a debate here last night but later apologized to his audience. Long recently was warmly greeted at Atlanta by Governor Talmadge when the Louisiana senator addressed the legislature in that state.

Young Talmadge, representing the University of Georgia in a debate with Tulane University compared Long with Hitler, of Germany, Stalin, of Russia, and Mussolini, of Italy. Later young Talmadge apologized for his remarks after being mildly and jokingly rebuked by Moise S. Steeg Jr., debate chairman.

McCracken Is Freed After Ten-Day Term

WASHINGTON, March 7.—(AP)—William P. McCracken, former assistant secretary of commerce, was released from the District of Columbia jail this morning after serving a 10-day sentence for contempt of the United States senate.

Mr. McCracken, wearing a brown business suit, hurried out a rear entrance and into a waiting automobile, evading a group of photographers and reporters at the front door.

Detective Agency Wins Whitehead Judgment

A New York private detective agency recovered a judgment for $3,200 in Fulton superior court Thursday against Joseph B. Whitehead, former Atlanta sportsman, for services alleged to have been performed in a series of transactions, among them being one in which the plaintiff says was in representing the defendant "in investigating and settling an affair in which he had become involved with a young woman in Washington, D. C." The agency, R. C. Schindler, Inc., relates that the claim was settled "in a manner entirely satisfactory to the defendant." The suit mentions three other transactions, alleging that R. C. Schindler and Whitehead rented a Park avenue apartment together in New York at a rental of $425 per month and that the defendant owes a balance of $1,200 for his half of the expenses. Other matters pertain to the alleged settlement of New York suits.

First National bank, of Atlanta, was named as garnishee in an attachment suit which preceded the superior court action, reported a balance of $10,000 and over "on hand in the defendant's name."

Nearly one-fourth of Holland is below sea level.

day by Joe C. Little, senior tax assessor. Tardy citizens face penalties after March 15.

An added service is provided at the city hall for those who wish to file their county returns at the same time they make them for the city. Deputy county receivers have windows conveniently located on the first floor adjacent to city assessors' offices.

GLORIFIED
RICE...

2 cups boiled Rice
1 cup pineapple, cut in cubes or shredded
1 cup whipping cream
24 marshmallows cut in quarters
1 cup chopped eating apple
1/2 cup sugar

The rice should be cooked until it is soft but not mushy. Mix all the ingredients, except the whipped cream, and let stand for one hour. Fold the whipped cream into the mixture just before serving. Garnish with candied cherries. Note: Whipped cream and cherry garnish may be omitted. Red cherries, strawberries, red raspberries or peaches may be used in place of pineapple. Yield: Six servings—two-thirds cup.

Crippled Indian Leaves

Estate Totaling $100,000

TULSA, Okla., March 7.—(AP)—

The strangest of rich Indians is dead.

Little Duffy Morrison, 42, a

Creek, who never in his life spoke a word and never moved his legs and arms because of paralysis, died

the master of a $100,000 estate—

but never knew what money was.

cottonseed and peanut oil, which has been passed by the Wisconsin state legislature, was made Thursday by a group of Georgia women who requested Governor Philip La Follette to veto the bill.

A large market for Georgia vegetable oils will be killed if Governor

La Follette approves the levy.

A Georgia consumers' committee, of which Miss Sally Fanny Gleaner is secretary, wired the Wisconsin governor Thursday asking him to veto the levy to help remove unfair marketing conditions. The heavy tax on vegetable oil products, margins principally, was set up by the Wisconsin legislature to reduce competition for its dairying interests, the committee secretary said.

Miss Gleaner, Mrs. Katherine Con-nerat, Mrs. S. R. Dull and Miss May

Rogers, representing the consumers' committee, discussed the situation with Governor Talmadge Thursday in a conference at the capitol.

Georgia, being a large producer of cottonseed and peanut oil, will lose a wide market for the products if unfair market restrictions are set up by other states against the vegetable oils.

THREE MEALS A DAY

KITCHEN TESTED RECIPES

by Sally Saver

Substantial sandwiches with hot savory fillings form the basis for innumerable quick suppers, school lunches, midnight snacks for unexpected guests, Sunday evening bites, kitchen parties and many other occasions.

The variety of such sandwiches is almost inexhaustible. The recipes given below will suggest to you many other combinations for tempting sandwiches that come in the "meal-in-self" category. We know you will enjoy all of these recipes.

Hot Mince Ham Sandwiches With

Mushroom Sauce.

Two cups ground or chopped cold cooked ham, 1 teaspoonful prepared brown or yellow mustard, 2 tablespoonfuls butter, 4 tablespoonfuls flour, 1-16 ounce tin cream of mushroom soup, stuffed Spanish olives, hard-cooked eggs, hot toast.

Combine ham and mustard and spread a generous amount of this filling on slices of hot toast. Melt butter in a saucepan, add flour and blend well. Pour in soup and stir thickened. Pour over the ham on toast and garnish with slices of olives and hard-cooked eggs.

Hot Tuna Fish Sandwiches With

Mushroom Sauce.

Two cups flaked tuna fish, 1 tablespoonful prepared brown or yellow mustard, 2 tablespoonfuls butter, 4 tablespoonfuls flour, 1-16 ounce tin cream of mushroom soup, stuffed

Spanish olives, hard-cooked eggs, hot toast.

Drain oil from tuna fish before flaking. Combine fish and mustard and spread a generous amount of this filling on slices of hot toast. Melt butter in a saucepan, add flour and

blend well. Pour in soup and stir thickened. Pour over the fish on toast and garnish with slices of olives and hard-cooked eggs.

Hot Baked Bean Sandwiches With Sliced Beef.

One small jar dried beef, 1 tablespoonful butter, 1-16 ounce can oven baked beans, 2 tablespoonfuls brown sugar, 6 slices hot buttered toast.

Break beef into small pieces and brown in skillet with butter. After a few minutes add beans, ketchup and sugar and allow to heat thoroughly. Serve on slices of toast.

A slice of genuine dill pickle is a suitable accompaniment to this lunch-eon dish.

Sausage, Scrambled Eggs and Ketchup

Sandwiches.

One pound sausage meat, 2 tablespoonfuls chopped onion, 6 eggs, well beaten; 1-2 teaspoonful salt, dash of pepper, 1-4 cup tomato ketchup, toast.

Cook sausage with onion until well done and nicely browned. Drain off all the fat. Combine well-beaten eggs with salt and pepper and pour over the meat in the skillet. Cook slowly, stirring constantly, until the eggs are thick and creamy. Add ketchup and stir until well blended. Serve a generous amount of this filling between slices of toast.

Grilled Supper Snacks.

For each sandwich have: One slice bread, prepared yellow mustard or chili sauce or stuffed Spanish olives,

1 slice baked or boiled ham, 4 asparagus tips, 1 slice American cheese or

1-4 cupful grated cheese, salt, crosscut sweet pickles.

Toast bread on one side and spread uncooked side with either mustard, chili sauce or top with 3 olives, sliced thinly. On this place ham, and arrange asparagus tips on top of ham, covering with cheese. Sprinkle with salt and place in a moderate oven

(375 degree Fahrenheit) for about 10 minutes or until cheese melts. Garnish with cross-cut sweet pickles.

Oyster and Mushroom Sandwiches.

Six tablespoonfuls butter, 6 tablespoonfuls flour, 1 teaspoonful paprika,

2 16-ounce tins cream of mushroom soup, 24 oysters (1 pint), 4 shell-hard-cooked eggs, sliced; toast.

Melt butter in the top of a double boiler, and the flour and paprika and blend well. Add the soup and stir until smooth and thick. Cook the oysters in their own liquor until the edges curl, then add with the hard-cooked eggs to the soup mixture; heat

HEIRESS INQUEST ENDS IN MYSTERY

Last Witness Says Girl
Had Hinted at Identical Death.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 7.—(AP) The death of Mrs. H. Bradley Davidson Jr., in her garage here last week remained an official mystery today as a coroner's jury wound up its inquest with an open verdict which failed to specify whether it was accident, suicide or murder.

Making a report 15 minutes after hearing witnesses for two and a half days, the jurors submitted a finding that the former Elva Statler, bride of two months and heiress to more than $1,000,000 of the Statler hotel estate "died of carbon monoxide poisoning under circumstances unknown to the jury."

Davidson, 42-year-old member of a socially prominent Washington family and himself a witness three times before the jury, showed no emotion when the report was announced. "I have no comment to make," he said.

From Solicitor Rowland S. Pruetie, who conducted the investigation, came the statement that any further action would be a question for the grand jury to decide. Unless called into special session, the grand jury will not meet before May.

Sheriff Charles McDonald, of Moore county, remarked that "the case is open for further investigation."

In his appearances as a witness Davidson told of the finding of his wife's body sprawled on the floor and running board of her expensive automobile last Wednesday morning after the pair and friends had participated in an all-night party, but at no time did he express an opinion on whether it was a case of suicide, accident, or foul play.

The last witness, however, Herbert D. Vail, of Glen Cove, L. I., and Pinehurst, testified to hearing Mrs. Davidson say about two weeks before her death that "she felt like going out into the garage, and turning on the motor."

Vail asserted she appeared to be "in the same mood" on the night of the party preceding her death. After admitting that he had expressed the opinion that her death was an accident, shortly after it occurred, Vail was asked:

"But you are now testifying as to her moody conventions and making intimations of suicide in order to not create the impression that it was suicide, are you not?"

"Yes," the witness was asked by M. G. Boyette, of Carthage, attorney for Davidson: "Mr. Vail, I believe it was your intention of keeping it from be-

'Snookie' Woods and Other Burlesque Stars Accused of 'Indecent Exposure' After Raid

Members of the burlesque company at the Atlanta theater making bond at police station Thursday afternoon after they had been arrested on charges of "indecent exposure."

While other feminine performers are, left to right, Joan Frank, Hazel DeVoe, Charlotte Gray and Monte Dale. O. L. Freeman, manager of the theater, is at left in the rear, while Jack Patton, comedian, looks on from the right. R. H. Cleveland, bondsman, who made the $100 bonds required for each of the accused, is seated at the table. Staff photo.

Atlanta's constabulary, Mrs. Catherine Davis, Thursday afternoon decided that certain members of the burlesque crew at the Atlanta theater were exposing portions of their epidermis that could be legally described as "indecent."

So, at the end of the performance, she went back stage, made a general case of "indecent exposure" against the alleged offenders and carted 10 of the company down to the new police station.

Word of the policewoman's single-handed raid having spread rapidly, a large audience was on hand to see the arrival of the prisoners, but spectators voiced bitter disappointment when they realized Mrs. Davis had allowed the girls time to dress for the street.

After the cases had been docketed on the police station register and a hearing on the charges set for 8:30 o'clock next Tuesday morning, the 10 girls designated as suicide because of her husband, and things of that kind?"

"Yes, I hoped all along it would be decided that way instead of the other," Vail replied. "I have no reason except I hoped it would be decided as an accident."

In answer to another question, he said he thought Mrs. Davidson had been "mentally unbalanced" ever since he had known her.

Dr. C. C. Carpenter, pathologist of Wake Forest Medical College, who performed an autopsy, submitted a final report of Wake Forest and Duke University chemists saying their tests had shown sufficient carbon monoxide poison to cause death, and nothing else to which death could be attributed.

Some alcohol was found, Carpenter said, but not enough to produce intoxication.

The physician was questioned at length about bruises on Mrs. Davidson's left arm and thigh. He expressed the opinion that they could have been made by human hands.

The Pinehurst Community Center, a white frame building used for the inquiry, was filled with citizens of this resort center as the case was given into the hands of the jury, concluding the case.

HUEY TURNS FIRE ON JOHNSON, F. D. R.

dodo, this Mr. Johnson was apparently selected to make the lead-off speech in this White House last Monday night. The Johnson speech was followed by more fuss and fury on behalf of the administration by speakers in and out of Congress.

Then, increasing the scope of his attack to the president and others, Long said:

"What is this trouble with this administration of Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Johnson, Mr. Farley, Mr. Astor and all their spoolers and spoolers? They think that Huey Long is the cause of all their worries. They go running for me. But, am I the cause of their misery?"

Schemes Have Failed.

In his speech tonight, the "Kingfish" renewed his attacks upon the Roosevelt administration as a whole before turning again to an exposition of his "share the wealth" plan.

"The trouble with the Roosevelt administration," he said, "is that when their schemes and plans have failed, these things I told them not to do and voted not to do, they think it will help to light out on those of us who warned them in the beginning that the tangled messes and noble experiments would not work."

"The Roosevelt administration has had its way for two years. They have been allowed to set up or knock down anything and everybody."

"There was one difference between Hoover and Roosevelt. Hoover could not get the congress to carry out the schemes he wanted to try. We managed to lick him on a roll call in the United States senate time after time. But, different with Mr. Roosevelt. He got his plans through congress. But on cold analysis they were found to be the same things Hoover tried to pass and failed."

No Difference.

He added that "the kitchen cabinet that sat in to advise Hoover was not different from the kitchen cabinet which advised Roosevelt. 'Maybe you see a little change in the man waiting on the tables,' he continued, but the kitchen has 'the same set of cooks.'"

The Louisiana senator then told his audience that if they thought the plowing up of cotton, corn and wheat, destruction of hogs and cattle were the "original ideas of this Roosevelt administration" they were wrong.

"Don't you remember when Mr. Hoover proposed to plow up every fourth row of cotton?" he asked. "We laughed him into scorn. President Roosevelt flayed him for proposing such a thing in the speech which he made from the steps of the capitol in Topeka, Kan."

"And so we beat Mr. Hoover on his plan. But when Mr. Roosevelt started on his plan it was not to plow up every fourth row of cotton like Hoover tried to do. Roosevelt's plan

MENEFFEE IS HELD INCOMMUNICADO

Police Silent on Evidence Against Man Freed by Roosevelt.

Gus Menefee, freed from the Atlanta federal penitentiary 15 months ago by President Roosevelt after serving 15 years of a life sentence for the slaying of a shipmate on the high seas during the war, Thursday was arrested and held incommunicado in the city jail by the yeag squad of the detective department. He was to be questioned in connection with the activities of the alleged burglary gang, the detectives stated.

Menefee was one of four men arrested early Thursday morning by the squad. Charges of "suspicion of receiving stolen goods" were made against Menefee, Al O. Turner, 39, of a Washington street address; and Paul Carter, 36, of a local hotel, while the charges against S. C. Brooks, 40, of an Ashby street address, was "suspicion of burglary."

The arrests of the five men came early Thursday morning as bills of indictment were being drawn naming W. H. Morgan, E. D. and D. M. Wheeler, Wendall, Fowler, Jess Jenkins, J. A. Jenkins and T. H. Carlin with burglary in approximately 40 counts, the detectives stated. These seven men were arrested more than a week ago.

Seven confessions have been obtained by members of the yeag squad and the investigations were being continued Thursday night as the detectives followed up additional information regarding the 37 burglaries named in the confessions.

The detectives Thursday night were seeking the alleged hiding places of some of the loot, among which was $1,240 in city scrip, which the men in their confessions said they obtained in a raid on the Baxter Lumber Company in Brookhaven.

Detectives Thursday night were reluctant to discuss what, if any, definite evidence they had against Menefee, and he was being held incommunicado, newspaper reporters not being permitted to see him.

'Prince' Silenced by Love For Mrs. Gould, Court Told

Divorcee Categorically Denies Allegations She Lived an Immoral or Improper Life.

NEW YORK, March 7.—(AP)—A supreme court jury learned today why Harry F. Gerguson, the dapper "Prince Mike" of Broadway, did not rise to the defense of his romantic reputation in Mrs. Wilma E. Gould's $500,000 conspiracy suit.

It was said, one of the attorneys in the case, because he had fallen in love with Mrs. Gould.

The explanation was offered in the closing address of Leon M. Prince, counsel for one of the four men accused by Mrs. Gould of hiring "Prince Mike" to help frame divorce evidence against her.

Although she had accused him of feeding her "knockout drops" and carrying her off to an apartment where a raiding party could find them, Mrs. Gould is "a charming and enticing woman," said Prince, and Gerguson "fell for her."

"He wasn't the first to succumb to the wiles and charms of this woman," the lawyer said, adding:

"Now you know why I didn't call him."

Gerguson, who is not a defendant in the suit, was absent from the courtroom.

Prince went on to say he did not want to "tax the patience of the jurors" with too many witnesses, and declared Mrs. Gould's charges were so flimsy that he had "seriously considered resting the case without putting on any defense witnesses."

Before the closing arguments began Mrs. Gould was recalled to deny the testimony of defense witnesses who had ascribed to her a lurid past.

Categorically and emphatically, she denied having been an inmate of disorderly houses in Chicago and New Orleans before her marriage to Edward B. Gould, wealthy pump manufacturer, whose divorce suit never came to trial.

She declared she had "never kissed any man other than my husband."

Alfred Becker, summing up for Gould, dwelt on the plaintiff's early life and asked the jury if they could believe "that she was not an 'on call' girl." He stressed the fact that Mrs. Gould had allegedly met her husband in a house of assignation. He defended the trust agreement drawn up by Gould's brothers for him after

Mrs. Astor and Enzo Leave for Riviera

ROME, March 7.—(AP)—Enzo Fiermonte and his second wife, the former Mrs. Madeleine Force Astor Dick, left tonight on their long-sought second honeymoon on the French Riviera after successfully winding their way through a labyrinth of Italian red tape.

Their hurried departure followed a police decree returning Enzo's passport, which had been taken from him when he landed at Genoa almost a month ago.

he had been declared incompetent. Leon M. Prince, summing up for Luisi, rested his defense on the ground that "no case has been made."

He charged Mrs. Gould had brought the suit merely to obtain money.

"Whatever testimony there is in based on inference," he said, "and the jury is not permitted to draw inferences."

Henry A. Uterhart will sum up for Mrs. Gould tomorrow, when the case is expected to get to the jury. A motion to dismiss was denied by Supreme Court Justice Edgar A. Lauer today.

Wage Differentials
Probe Is Demanded

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 7.—(AP)—A congressional investigation into the wage differential between the north and south, repeal of the cotton processing tax and stricter control over textile imports were among the recommendations made today by the Rhode Island Textile Association to the special state commission investigating conditions in the textile industry.

Militant action along state and national fronts in the battle to save the cotton textile industry from destruction was urged by the association. A reduction of local taxes on idle and unproductive mills also was among the recommendations. The national industrial recovery act should be continued with proper modifications, the association's brief declared, adding that abandonment of the principles of the NRA at this time would bring about a more serious and chaotic condition than now exists.

ATLANTA, GA., MARCH 8, 1935.

IN "DRY" GEORGIA

The statement of S. E. Tuttle, district supervisor of the alcohol tax unit of the United States internal revenue department, that Georgia, despite its loose dry prohibition law, is "probably the wettest of any state in the Union," emphasizes the folly of putting further faith in methods of control of the liquor traffic that have so completely failed.

The answer to this failure is found in the statement of Chief Sturdivant before the senate temperance committee that "public sentiment is against the dry law and no law which public sentiment is against can be enforced."

There can be no possible doubt of the correctness of Chief Sturdivant's position, in view of the statement by Supervisor Tuttle that 100,000 gallons of corn liquor are being consumed in Atlanta each month.

That is enough to give every man, woman and child in Atlanta a quart a month, with several thousand gallons left over.

This huge consumption of intoxicants is not because earnest efforts are not being made at enforcement of the law. Mr. Tuttle's report shows that during January alone federal agents raided 233 stills, arrested 377 persons and confiscated 7,344 gallons of liquor.

The hopelessness of the effort to enforce the dry laws is evidenced by the federal official's report that there are 12 large syndicates operating in Atlanta, three of which have been put out of business since the first of the year, but as fast as we put one group out of business another comes along to take its place.

That has been Georgia's continuous experience with prohibition. Every year under state prohibition saw an increase in bootlegging and there was no let-up when the national law was added.

While it has been universally known that liquor was easily procurable in every cross-roads of Georgia, few have realized that the flood of liquor has attained such proportions as testified to by the effect of the federal forces in the state.

Certainly Mr. Tuttle's statement gives reason for the people of the state to pause and reflect.

UNFAIR TO GEORGIA

United effort should be made by the members of the Georgia delegation in congress to effect the re-instatement of the $2,000,000 for improvement of military posts in Georgia lopped off the senate appropriation bill.

The subcommittee in charge of the bill inserted into it $985,000 for Fort Benning, $226,000 for Candler field, $762,000 for Fort McPherson and $133,000 for Fort Oglethorpe, but these items have been stricken by action of the full senate appropriation bill.

The appropriation sought for remodeling, reconditioning and installations of various kinds in the pending bill is one of the largest on record. Georgia should have a fair share of the money to be spent for these purposes, especially in view of the need for improvements and expansions in the military establishments in the state.

The appropriation for Candler field was for the construction of proper buildings to house a military air unit. Atlanta, as the air hub of the southeast and the center of a territory in which army activities are concentrated, should have such a plant. The improvements contemplated at Fort McPherson have long been needed and would add materially to the efficiency of army service in this area.

With an appropriation for military needs as large as the one now being considered, Georgia is entitled to the $2,000,000 lopped off by the senate committee. It is to be hoped that our representatives in congress will be able to force its being slipped back in the bill.

"PINK SLIP" REPEAL FAVORED

Approval by the house ways and means committee of a bill to eliminate the so-called "pink slip" publicity clause of the income tax law, and the probability that the house will forego its usual Saturday recess in order to consider the bill, evidences the growing opposition to this unfair and dangerous requirement.

The press of the country is practically unanimous in demanding the repeal of the clause on the ground that it puts in the hands of extortionists, kidnappers and other types of criminals information that can be used in victimizing the well-to-do and because those of moderate means are put at the mercy of sharpers and others who prey on those with small incomes.

The Buffalo Evening News points out that—Racketeers of every kind will have a field day if the order for publicity stands—if congress does not repeal the provision in time to make it ineffective for the March 15 tax returns. In the pink slips they will find all the information necessary for their rackets. Dispensers of every kind of fake stock will have their little lists. High-power salesmanship will be developed to new refinements.

All and sundry will find for certain that "there's tricks in the world," tricks by which to separate a man from his money.

The Philadelphia Inquirer feels that the provision is an "outrageous breach of confidence on the part of the government and as such it is abhorrent and repellent to every honorable man," citing that—

The year's record of a man's financial gains and losses is peculiarly his own affair, except in so far as it enters into his duty as a good citizen. It behooves him to support his government in proportion to his ability to earn. The measure of his support is a matter for only his government and himself to know. It is not the business of his inquisitive neighbors, his personal or business enemies, casual bystanders, blackmailers, extortioners or kidnappers. He reports to his government in good faith. His government should keep that faith.

The Hartford Courant points out that those of large wealth are apt to be least harmed by the publicity provision, the chief danger being to the woman of small income, who will be hounded by those seeking easy prey for their wiles; by the small merchant doing business on a narrow margin of profit, and by young men just entering business who may have a promising future but whose small income may cause his creditors to shut down on him, and by innumerable others of moderate capital and income. These are the ones, holds this Connecticut newspaper, who will—

Suffer most from the pressure, the gossip, the blackmailing, the racketeering that the little pink slip will make possible. The man, not J. P. Morgan, are the ones who ought to be protected by congress. They can be protected if the movement for the elimination of the pink slip is carried forward earnestly. Congress can enact a repealer during the next two weeks if it chooses to do so. If it does not, it will have to answer, not to J. P. Morgan, but to Jane Doe and Richard Roe.

The theory behind the publicity clause is that it will tend to prevent tax evasion, but certainly if the existing precautions against efforts to dodge the payment of proper income taxes, there are other methods that can be resorted to that will be less objectionable than the spreading of intimate information about every man's financial status before the public.

The clause is iniquitous and inexcusable and it is to be hoped that congress will repeal it before the filing of the tax returns on March 15.

Mr. Mellon is revealed as a connoisseur of paintings, the government agreeing that some of his income tax papers have been works of art.

They talk of replacing many of the country's 250,000 grade crossings with bridges and letting the nut driver try his head against an abutment.

Cornell plant breeders are experimenting with the odors in vegetables. The latest and greatest triumph is an air-conditioned cabbage.

Statistics show that if laid end to end the Dionne quintuplets would be 10 feet long, but no flatter than a vaudeville act by the folks.

Vermont is experimenting with a rum made of maple syrup. They've tried distilling everything but a tenor crooner's voice.

The Dionnes, papa and mama, will try to get control of their babies. It is a problem all right-minded parents have to face.

A genealogist has traced her ancestry back 159 generations to Adam. This, incidentally, is as far as the Tennessee legislature will let you go.

Unusually perplexing to the NRA is a strike in the mamma doll industry, as neither side will say uncle.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Strategy.

Two of the three great mosques of Timbuctoo are absolutely out of bounds to strangers. Not the faintest chance of getting in. A man would be stoned if he tried to approach the portals. The third is for transient merchants. How did we get into the mosque? For Youssef the matter presented no difficulties at all. He is a Moslem. But I look so little like a Semite, in spite of what Mr. Goebbels paper, Angriff, has said on the subject, that there was a chance of getting in without little makeup. Timbuctoo is not Constantinople, where the mosques are also open to unbelievers since the advent of Atatürk. No, in Timbuctoo there is no Kemal Pasha yet, a man who flung the Koran into a corner of the parliament chamber in Ankara with the words: "Away with those fairy tales! We have grown up!"

In Timbuctoo the fire of Islam is not quenched. I had to smear my face and hands and neck with brown juice, tobacco juice, to be exact. I wrapped some rags around my head and wore Youssef's Sunday burnous. I had forgotten one thing, namely this: Before you enter a mosque you must take off your shoes and squat down before one of the foundations in the garden for a few seconds. There is no getting away from that. If you tried to sneak in without washing your feet you'd soon be laid about it, with a bad scolding by one of the guards at the door.

Tactics.

What to do? My head filled with misgivings. I took my boots and socks off on the edge of the pool, with a belief that I had dropped the socks and snoring, and gargling and scraping my throat, for you must also rinse your mouth and nostrils before entering. I shall never forget the look of the man next to me, a bearded, wild-eyed fellow, when he caught sight of my unmistakable white man's face. His jaw dropped and he stared at me speechless. When he recovered somewhat from his surprise he spoke a word or so to his neighbor. I felt that I was sunk. However, I went on with his usual presence of mind, saved the situation nobly. He had been standing behind me and now suddenly I elbowed him way roughly in sudden surprise. He said: "That's all right, my friend. ## SOUTHERN LEADER LAUDS FARM PLAN

Hugh MacRae Says Dixie
Solons Favor Program of Rehabilitation.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—(AP)—Hugh MacRae, of the southeastern council, said today he found "a marked degree of enthusiasm" among members of congress from the south for a broad rural rehabilitation program in that area.

There is a conviction, he added, that such a rural plan is basic to the southern economic structure, and that effective legislation should be passed at this session of congress.

MacRae, whose home is Wilmington, N. C., appeared yesterday before a senate committee on the Bankhead bill to set up a billion-dollar government corporation to finance farm purchases by worthy tenants. He described the proposal as "the greatest bill introduced in congress in 50 years."

It is agreed, he said today after conferences with members of congress, there are four important lines of procedure in effectuating a rural life program. He listed these as follows:

"1. The emergency relief which is being wisely administered by Mr. Harry L. Hopkins and his assistant, Mr. Tuller, to give as much permanent relief as possible to displaced tenant farmers and share croppers who are now in greatest distress."

"2. The public works act which will make available funds for building rural communities for farm families dispossessed and those of farm

Entertainment To Feature Big Rogers Show, Exhibition

Entertainment of exceptionally high calibre will be provided during the fifth annual Rogers Stores Food Show and Exposition, to be held at 230 Spring street, March 14 to 23. Two of the featured entertainers are shown above, left to right, Miss Marion Rosenberg, talented young Atlanta dancer, and Pete Underwood, whose Biltmore hotel radio orchestra will be one of the highlights of the vaudeville program.

Entertainers of national reputation, as well as Atlanta artists, will be featured on the vaudeville program which will be one of the feature attractions of the fifth annual Rogers Stores Food Show and Exposition, to be held March 14 to 23 at 230 Spring street.

Two shows will be presented daily, one in the afternoon and the other in the evening, according to John W. Gates, show director. Pete Underwood and his Biltmore radio orchestra will provide the music and there will be a wide variety of attractions. Negotiations have been completed for the appearance of Fennell's Swiss Alpine Voleers, which have been a headline attraction on the Orpheum circuit for several years. Among the other acts will be Betty Elliott, featured singer with the Biltmore orchestra.

experience who have no assured outlook under present conditions.

"3. The subsistence homestead program which will have to be reshaped and intelligently administered if it is to be of any material advantage to the south."

"4. The new Bankhead bill which goes definitely and adequately at the essential problem of reconstructing rural life in a way that will make it socially satisfying, economically sound and self-liquidating."

MacRae expressed satisfaction for the endorsement given the tenant bill by Secretary Wallace, and said he was glad to learn the agriculture chief will administer the act, if passed.

MUSICAL ARTISTS OF CITY TO OFFER PROGRAM TONIGHT

One of the most outstanding musical programs by local artists to be heard in Atlanta this season will be presented tonight at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Elsas, 1403 Ponce de Leon avenue, N. E., under the auspices of the Studio Club.

Mrs. Benjamin Elsas, lyric soprano, will feature a group of Russian songs. Vocal selections also will be rendered by Haskell Boyter, baritone.

Mrs. Elinore Whittemore King, violinist, will render "Andante" and "Badinerie," by Bach. These selections are offered by Mrs. King in commemoration of Bach's 250th anniversary. She also will play "Lullaby," by Reger, and "Slavonic Dance," by Dvorak-Kreisler.

Mrs. Priscilla Loemker, cellist, and Mrs. Isabel Bryan will be heard in a concert for the cello and violin.

Mrs. Eleanor McDonald Elsas will play Walter Niemann's "Garden Music."

Mrs. Charles Chalmers will play the accompaniments for Mrs. King and Mr. Boyter.

This program is one of five being presented this season under the direction of the music group of the Studio Club, and all club members are cordially invited to attend.

Andrew Fairlie is president of the Studio Club.

PATRICK H. WINTER PASSES AT HOME

Assistant Cashier of Citizens and Southern Dies
After Long Illness.

Patrick H. Winter, 53, assistant cashier of the Citizens and Southern National bank, died Thursday morning at his residence at 55 Avery drive, N. E. He had been ill several months.

Mr. Winter had been widely known in Atlanta banking circles since 1903, when he first became associated with the old Atlanta National bank. He came here from Madison, Ga., where he was born and reared.

In 1919, Mr. Winter was transferred to the Atlanta Trust Company and three years later was elected treasurer. He became connected with the Citizens and Southern National bank in 1926, being named assistant cashier in 1931.

The banker was active in religious and civic affairs, and was a member of the Second-Ponce de Leon Baptist church. His long career as a banker gained him a wide reputation throughout the state and the south.

Friends and fellow bankers will pay him tribute at 1 o'clock this afternoon at Spring Hill. Dr. Ryland Knight, pastor of the Second-Ponce de Leon Baptist church, will officiate and interment will be in Gainesville, Ga., where the body will be taken by H. M. Patterson & Son.

Robert Adamson, A. G. Maxwell, A. J. Stitt, L. H. Parris, B. T. Johnson and W. R. Spann will serve as pallbearers and honorary escorts will be formed by officials of the Atlanta

Wallace Asks Passage Of AAA Amendments

WASHINGTON, March 7.—(AP)—Passage of the proposed amendments to the agricultural adjustment act was urged today before the senate agriculture committee by Secretary Wallace on the ground that farmers must continue to control production and that the act must be perfected to facilitate this.

"The real issue in the bill is whether the agricultural adjustment act is to continue to be recognized as an instrument for achieving farmers' rights and defined as may be necessary, or whether the nation is to return to the former policy of abandoning agriculture to the ruthless forces of individualism, no matter how cruel these forces may press down upon the individual farmer," he said.

PHYSICIAN BOUND OVER ON EXTORTION CHARGE

NEW YORK, March 7.—(AP)—Dr. Fuad Hanna, Miami, Fla., physician, today was held in $1,000 bond to the grand jury on a charge of attempted extortion.

Dr. Hanna appeared before Magistrate Earl A. Smith for hearing on a charge brought by Walter Reade, New Jersey motion picture chain operator.

Reade accused Dr. Hanna of demanding $5,000 of him on threat to reveal details of his personal life.

Clearing House and by the officers of the clearing house banks.

Surviving are his wife; a daughter, Miss Josephine Winter, and two sisters, Mrs. W. B. Jopling, of Augusta, and Mrs. Hall Mashburn, of Lake Waconaw, N. C.

10,000 Zoo Fund Dimes Allocated For First Work on New Buildings

Lewis F. Gordon, treasurer of the Grant park zoo fund, Thursday turned over $1,000 to a special account, to be paid out on warrants drawn by George I. Simons, city manager of parks, for the first work in constructing homes at the Grant park zoo for the animals and birds to be kept there by Asa G. Candler.

Some of the animals already have been moved from Briarcliff to the zoo and lodged in temporary quarters, pending the building of their new homes.

Mr. Gordon at the same time announced that to date $3,742.22 dimes had been deposited to the zoo fund, of the needed 150,000 which must be raised if proper homes are to be erected for all the animals.

Mr. Candler has given his entire zoological collection to the city, and council and the mayor have accepted it, but the money to erect the new quarters for the birds and beasts must be raised by popular subscription. A total of 150,000 dimes is positively the lowest sum for which the job can be done adequately.

While none of the contributions listed Thursday were extremely large, several are of unusual interest.

Two Atlanta schools deposited the dimes they have so far received from their pupils. Goldsmith school sent in 141 dimes and Sylvan Hills school 160.

Buck Hoey, of 32 Sunnyside drive, N. E., sent in two dimes, one for himself and one for his dog "Peg." Buck is a member of the Young America Club of the Constitution and he suggested that every member of the club do likewise.

W. H. Culpepper and his daughter sent 10 dimes to The Constitution for his grandniece and grandnephews, Walter Lee Jr., Thad Lee and Alice Ruth Lee, all of Waycross; Martha Bramlett, Carolyn Smith, James Smith, Leah Twitty and Frank Twitty Jr., of Camilla.

The Circolo Italiano announced that at its regular monthly meeting last Wednesday resolutions were adopted favoring acceptance of the Candler zoo by the city and all members present contributed to the fund.

The collection box in the lobby of the Capitol theater yielded 70 dimes for the fund when opened Thursday, and the Every Saturday Club got in the 100 per cent class when each of its 21 members gave a dime.

Mary Womack, of Fitzgerald, Ga., sent 4 dimes and Troop No. 1, of the Boy Scouts at College Park sent 5 dimes.

Three Atlanta business houses were added to the 100 per cent list, meaning that each of their employees had given at least one dime through the company. They are Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, 20 dimes; W. E. Browne Decorating Company, 25 dimes; and Dixie Electric Company, Inc., employees, 20 dimes.

Gifts for the fund may be sent to either of the three Atlanta newspapers or to Lewis F. Gordon, zoo fund treasurer, at the Citizens & Southern National bank on Marietta street.

AUGUSTA, Mont.—(UP)—Montana's heaviest hog of the year is believed that, butchered recently by Mrs. Katherine Warner. The porker dressed 500 pounds and yielded 100 pounds of lard.

ADVICE TO WOMEN

ALL women at some period of their lives need a strengthening tonic like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. The young woman who suffers from monthly pains, the expectant mother who has nausea and other disagreeable symptoms, or the middle-aged woman who experiences "heat flashes" will find this "Prescription" a dependable tonic. Mrs. Annie M. Cape of 922 B. St., Meridian, Miss., said: "I was too weak to do my housework, suffered with pains in my back and sides and headaches were frequent. I could neither eat nor sleep and my weight went down to 120 pounds. I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription as a tonic and was soon in the best of health."

Purchase of Mosque Opposed by City Club

While City Attorney Jack C. Savage Thursday reported progress by attorneys representing varied interests in the proposed acquisition by the city of the Shrine mosque and Fox theater properties for a municipal auditorium, members of the City Club approved a resolution opposing any such action.

The club sponsored remodeling of the present auditorium according to plans evolved by Morgan & Dillon, architects, at a cost of $500,000.

Under instructions from council, Savage is attempting to evolve a legal plan for acquiring the Shrine properties and proponents of the plan Thursday predicted that council and the aldermanic board will approve the program by "comfortable majorities."

Resolutions of the club pointed out that the remodeling of the old structure would give Atlanta an investment worth $2,000,000, and would provide ample auditorium facilities. They pointed out that the city would lose $15,000 taxes annually from the mosque and that maintenance would cost the city $70,000 a year.

REMODELING IS BEGUN
ON OLD P. O. BUILDING

Remodeling of the old Atlanta post-office building at Forsyth and Walton streets at a cost of $50,000 was begun Thursday by the Barge-Thompson Company, local contractors.

The outside of the building will be cleaned and a number of changes made in the interior, including remodeling the clerk's office on the third floor and the district attorney's office on the fourth floor.

The job will require eight months to complete, according to H. W. Thayer, construction engineer of the United States treasury department, who is in Atlanta supervising commencement of the project.

REPEAL ISSUE GOES TO SUBCOMMITTEE

Revised or Amended Bills Ordered Reported Back to Senate Monday.

The senate committee on temperance Thursday night referred its proposed submission of the state prohibition law and proposed legalization of beer to a subcommittee with instructions to report revised or amended bills back to the full committee by noon Monday.

The subcommittee is composed of Senator John McGehee, of Talbotton, chairman of the temperance committee; Senator David Atkinson, of Savannah, vice chairman of the committee; Senator J. H. Skelton Sr., of Hartwell, and Senator W. O. Cooper, of Macon. The committee is composed of one anti-repealist, Senator McGehee; one repealist, Senator Atkinson; and three "in-betweens," all of whom are believed to favor submission of some kind of a repeal proposal.

The motion to refer the measures, including the beer bill, to the subcommittee was made by Senator Skelton at an executive meeting of the committee at the Kimball House after members of the committee had offered numerous amendments and several substitutes to the bill passed by the house.

The chief objection to the house bill, it was understood, was the provision for liquor stores by county and city governments, in the event repeal in the particular county is voted. Also, it is understood a majority of the committee felt the tax of $250 per year on retail stores, this tax going to the local subdivision, was too low.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Senator Skelton said he felt certain the subcommittee would draft a "workable" bill and one which would meet the approval of the full committee.

"I for one want the people to vote on the whole question once and for all," he declared.

The beer bill was referred to the subcommittee without discussion, but it is generally expected that inasmuch as Governor Talmadge has suggested a referendum on this measure it will be attached by the committee.

DENNIS IN FIGHT FOR TAX EXEMPTION

plan, a proposal to abolish all real estate taxes, passed but it was later learned the governor wanted this substitute taken up and then amended to fix the 10-mill limit on all property taxes. He clarified the situation by issuance of a public statement.

People in Frying Pan.
"We have got the people of this state into a frying pan and don't want them to get into the fire," he said referring to the plan of Speaker E. D. Rivers, of the house, for a $5,000 tax exemption on owner-occupied homes and farms, a constitutional amendment which was approved by the house 160 to 30.

"We want to get them in a cooler frying pan," the governor continued. "The governor has publicly advocated a 10-mill limitation on all taxation and a bill with that provision is now pending in the house."

Senator Preston Rawlins, of McRae, the governor's home city, interpreted the Talmadge statement as meaning the governor wanted the 10-mill limitation proposal attached as an amendment to the Pope-Rawlins plan and with Senator Scott, Senator James H. Skelton Sr., of Hartwell, and others moved in that direction.

However, when Senator Dennis got the floor it was all over for the day. The Eaton senator makes no effort to hide the fact he was conducting a filibuster.

"I'll stay here until the senate agrees to accept the plan of the house which, after all, is the plan I advocated," Senator Dennis said. "Speaker Rivers kidnapped my program and is going to be elected governor on it. I am going to let the senate know that this and that reading this and that, killing time. President Redwine had to warn him that under the rules of the senate he must stick to the matter under discussion or yield the floor."

Still Going Strong.
The senator then took from his pocket a copy of the tax exemption platform on which he ran last fall and reread it. He asked for ice water and friendly senators furnished him with a pitcher full. Later he asked for a soft drink and got it. The friends brought him a sandwich and a bottle of milk. One by one his fellow senators put on their hats and left the hall. It all started just before 1 o'clock and at 3:30 he was still going strong but noting the almost empty senate he suddenly halted the speech.

It was the first one-man filibuster in several sessions of the Georgia assembly and was something new for most of the members of both houses. News of the senator's stand spread over the capitol and the senate was filled most of the time with spectators, even though the members absent themselves. For the most part the spectators were members of the house.

New Home-End Store Opens Today

J. D. (Mac) McCurdy (left), manager, and Ralph Morgan, market manager, are shown above on the eve of the opening this morning of the Warren's Home-End store at 1005 Peachtree street. Souvenirs, and free samples will be presented to shoppers. R. L. Warren, proprietor, asserted Thursday that the store is one of the most modernistically equipped ones in the Tenth street and Peachtree district, and expressed the opinion it will render a distinct service to the community. A full line of groceries, meats, fruits, vegetables and nationally-known lines will be stocked.

Senate Bills

The following bills were introduced in the senate Thursday and referred to the committee designated:
S. B. 220—By Senator Atkinson—To amend the act conveying certain properties in Chatham county to the United States government. State of the Republic.
S. B. 221—By Senator Gaskins and Others—To add the road from Griffin to Hiramville to the state highway system. Highway.
S. B. 222—By Senator Millican—To provide for a discount not exceeding 10 per cent on the sale of tax excursions in counties of more than 70,000 population. Judiciary No. 2.

ate, was on the calendar for action during Thursday's session but despite the fact the house ran from 9 o'clock in the morning until 6:30 o'clock at night it was not reached. It will be on the calendar again today, the rules committee announced.

The house passed a bill providing in the event of the deaths of Confederate veterans or the widows of Confederate veterans, all accrued pension monies shall be paid to the heirs of the pensioners to provide for burial expenses and medical costs. The measure, introduced by Gammage, of Terrell county, and Booth, of Barrow county, received unanimous vote.

Three Terms of Court.
Another measure given approval provides for three terms of the supreme court instead of two, as is now the case. Court terms will commence in January, April and September, the month of August being set aside for vacations. Representative Almond, of Fulton county, spoke in behalf of the bill.

Licensing of all new charitable organizations and societies for which funds are collected, such as orphanages and old people's homes, was likewise provided by the house. Representative Ralph E. Lewis introduced the measure, explaining it was introduced to curb hoodlums posing as sponsors of charitable agencies.

A resolution designating the state highway from Augusta to Atlanta and thence to West Point, state Routes 12 and 14, as Jefferson Davis highway was ordered held for further consideration when Representative J. McClellan, of Wheeler, announced the highway passing through his home city of Alamo was already known as the Jefferson Davis highway. Sponsors of the resolution designating the Augusta-Atlanta-West Point route declared it had the approval of the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Representative T. F. Kelley, of Elbert county, announced he would introduce a resolution today requesting congress to build all public buildings to be erected in Georgia of marble and granite. The measure, introduced by the Georgia Congress of Parents and Teachers, was shown for the representatives. The film revealed the appalling contrast between the better-class schools in the state and those in some of the poorer rural districts. Mrs. Charles Carter, of College Park, president of the congress, addressed the house, thanking the members for their support of school legislation.

Burglary Thwarted.
Burglars attempting to enter the home of J. T. Argo at 314 Williams street Thursday night were greeted with shotgun fire, and later two men who gave the names of Ralph W. Lade, 27, and Guy Taylor, 19, both of Jones avenue, were arrested by Patrolmen B. W. Mansard and R. L. Mosley. They were identified by Argo as the two he had shot at, and police booked them on "suspicion."

Cuba Doesn't Pay Off On $700,000 Lottery
HAVANA, March 7.—(AP)—It took a lot of luck to win the $250,000 first prize in yesterday's national lottery, but apparently it's going to take a lot more luck to collect it.

It became evident today when the treasury department, paralyzed by a strike of its employees, held up payment of the $700,000 in prizes in the drawing. The bulk of the profit from the lottery was to be turned over to local charities.

The average Cuban takes his lottery seriously and the failure to pay off promptly furnished a lot of fuel for gossip.

The lottery was not the only financial problem the government faced. For the first time in Cuba's history, no customs collections were made at the port of Havana.

At least four steamers arrived with dutiable merchandise, but the government lacked facilities to make the collections. Customs inspectors are on strike.

STRIKES IN CUBA GROWING HOURLY

Batista Takes Full Charge and Declares Strikers Will Be Replaced.

HAVANA, March 7.—(AP)—Post-office and telegraph employees tonight joined the strike of government employees in sympathy with hundreds of thousands of students, teachers and workers already out.

The list of departments paralyzed grew until observers generally agreed six departments were definitely out and two more were likely to quit tomorrow.

Workers in the departments of treasury, labor, commerce, agriculture, communications, education and public health joined the walkout. Municipal government employees of Havana also quit and the departments of justice and state were expected to follow suit tomorrow.

At least four daily newspapers agreed not to publish tomorrow unless a government requirement as to previous revision of copy is removed. Another may be forced to suspend by a strike of its employees.

Facing its third "revolutionary general strike" threat in 14 months of power, President Carlos Mendieta's provisional government changed its procedure by turning the situation over to Commander-in-Chief Fulgencio Batista.

His greatest handicap lies in the fact that on the two previous occasions the government adopted drastic decrees and made strong threats which it failed to carry through.

Colonel Batista showed he fully realized this when he issued orders to district military commanders to remove strikers from customs and revenue posts and replace them with other persons. In the final paragraph the language changed from the military third person to a positive first person affirmation in which he said, "I can insure that what happened in last year's communications strike when strikers were restored to their positions, will not be repeated."

Richard F. Hoyt, Aircraft Chief, Dies

NEW YORK, March 7.—(AP)—Richard F. Hoyt, chairman of the board of the Curtiss-Wright Corporation and a leading financier in the aviation industry, died early today at the Doctors' hospital. He was 46 years old.

Hoyt had been ill for two weeks from a liver disease.

DR. Z. T. CODY.
GREENVILLE, S. C., March 7.—(AP)—Dr. Z. T. Cody, 76, editor of the Baptist Courier and for half a century a Baptist clergyman, died at his home here today.

DR. F. H. MARTIN.
PHOENIX, Ariz., March 7.—(AP)—Dr. Franklin H. Martin, founder of the College of Surgeons, Chicago, died today of a heart attack.

25 G. S. W. C. STUDENTS GUESTS AT ELBERTON

ELBERTON, Ga., March 7.—Mrs. Fern Dorris and 25 of her geography class of the Georgia State Women's College, of Milledgeville, paid a visit to Elberton's granite fields today. This is the first visit the class has made in its effort to study natural resources in various parts of the state. They were guests of the Kiwanis Club, and in the morning were shown through the larger quarries and in the afternoon through the fine plantations, serving the actual workings of the industry.

At 1 o'clock they were guests at the regular Kiwanis luncheon, when granite souvenirs were presented to each guest and to Mrs. Dorris a beautifully carved and engraved paperweight. A representative of every shed in the city was present at the luncheon. Rev. Henry Byrd welcomed the guests and Miss Bettie Reid made the response.

The chamber of commerce presented the class with a fine artistic folder containing granite scenes and detail information.

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands of sufferers from itching, bleeding or protruding piles have learned that quick and lasting relief can be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor cutting remove the cause.

Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts lifeless. To end Piles an internal medicine should be used to stimulate the circulation, and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonard was the first to discover a real internal Pile remedy. He called his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for hundreds of patients with a marvelous record of success and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID tablets from their own druggist with a rigid money back guarantee.

So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Jacobs Drug Stores say "No matter what kind of Piles you have, one bottle of HEM-ROID tablets must show you the safe way to get rid of your Pile misery or money back."—(adv.)

BIRD, TREE NAMED AS GEORGIA'S OWN BY HOUSE ACTION

Georgia will have an official state bird, the brown thrasher, and a state tree, the pine, if a resolution adopted by the house of representatives at its session Thursday is concurred in by the senate.

Designation of the brown thrasher and the pine tree as the state's official bird and tree, respectively, had the indorsement of the school children of Georgia and the Garden Club. The house resolution was passed by unanimous vote and ordered sent to the senate.

Garden clubs and some civic organizations have used the brown thrasher and the pine as the state's bird and tree in the past, but they were not official.

Is This Too Good for Your Cough?

Creomulsion may be a better help than you need. It combines seven helps in one. It is made for quick relief, for safety.

Mild coughs often yield to lesser helps. No one can tell. No one knows which factor will do most for any certain cough. So careful people, more and more, are using Creomulsion for any cough that is serious.

The cost is a little more than a single help. But your druggist is authorized to guarantee it, so it costs nothing if it fails to bring you quick relief. Coughs are danger signals. For safety's sake, deal with them in the best way known.—(adv.)

First Alumna Daughter Receives Diploma From N. A. P. S. in May

By Sally Forth.

WHEN lovely Anne Pomeroy Brantley receives her diploma from North Avenue Presbyterian school next May she will be the first daughter of an alumna of this institution to graduate from the school. Her mother, Mrs. Edgar Pomeroy Brantley, the former Miss Florence Stow, was a member of the 1916 senior class, this group being the second to graduate from the school.

Enjoying the same popularity as did her charming mother when enrolled at this well-known school, Anne is a favorite with her classmates and members of the faculty. Inheriting also from her mother a natural inclination for study, Anne leads her class in many subjects and will receive her diploma at the early age of "sweet sixteen."

Although she and her parents are uncertain as to the college she will attend, it is certain that next fall will find this youthful Atlanta resident at some leading college or university. Sally feels safe in predicting a successful and happy future for this attractive brown-eyed girl who belongs to representative and influential families, her grandparents being Mrs. Edward Stow and the late Mr. Stow, of this city, and Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Brantley, of Blackshear, Ga.

Pa., after visiting the Snyder's at their Vernon road residence, she was presented an Uncle Remus book by Julian Harris, the son of the author, which bore an interesting inscription by the donor.

There in Muncy, via the Luminary, the weekly news sheet, Peter Rabbit intrigued the interest of a long, lanky tobacco-chewing countryman who "toils not, neither does he spin." Residing in his tiny shack, supported by the county, he spends his days backed against a friendly wall, chewing tobacco and gossiping with fellow idlers of the news

Miss Reid To Be Feted at Tea On Saturday

Miss Josephine Reid, whose marriage to George Graham Thomas will be an important event of Easter morning, will be central figure at the tea which her sisters, Mrs. Reginald Dunn and Miss Caroline Reid, will entertain on Saturday. The party will be given at the home of Mrs. Dunn on Columbia avenue, and Mrs. S. C. Reid, mother of the bride-elect, will assist in entertaining.

Invited to meet Miss Reid are Messrs. Herbert Lee, John A. Dunnaway, T. H. Yon, Howard Wilson, R. K. Moore, Max Young, Dan Mooney, E. W. Bethea, Francis McCullough, J. E. Atkinson, S. C. Reid, Misses Katherine Shaw, Eunice Hall, Esther Harris, Laura Moser, Frances Dye, Lucy Beacham, Nanelle Beacham, Mabel Carroll, Mary Cloud, Betty Reid and Sara Adams.

of the countryside. He heard of Miss Snyder's visit to the southland and of her prized gift of Peter Rabbit. Puzzled, he pondered the matter.

"What kind of a wild animal did Miss Snyder bring back from Atlanta? Was it some kind of rabbit?" he queried.

And Uncle Remus readers throughout the world agree that it was a new kind of rabbit. A very special kind.

PRETTY Julia Colquitt has a grand time in store for her this week-end in New Haven, Conn., where she will be among visiting belles attending the spring dances at Yale University.

Two dances this evening usher in the series of social events at the famous and historical old school. The first takes place at Woolsey Hall from 10 until 3 Saturday morning, while the second begins at Franklin Hall at 2 Saturday morning, and 7 o'clock will find the college crowd still dancing to the rhythmic strains of a well-known eastern orchestra.

Saturday there will be a swimming meet and a hockey game between Yale and Harvard, after which there will be a tea-dance and later a formal dance. Julia is a member of one of the house parties and her mother, Mrs. Walter Colquitt, is one of the chaperons, the pair having arrived there Thursday evening. Julia, you know, is attending school at Mt. Vernon Seminary in Washington, D. C., for her first year "off," and joined her mother there as the latter went eastward. After the dances at Yale, Julia will return to her studies in the national capital and Mrs. Colquitt will spend some time in New York.

THE swiftest monocoop that takes off from the Venetian airport in Miami, Fla., belongs to Roy Evans, of Atlanta and Miami. The plane is painted a Florida yellow and is trimmed with black. It corresponds in color to the state automobile license. He keeps it in the hangar which houses the blue and white plane owned by Bernard MacFadden, and the red and white plane belonging to Harry Richmond, master of ceremony at the Beach and Tennis Club.

The stunning black and silver plane owned by Roy seats four passengers, including the owner-pilot. Roy is always at the controls when his planes leave the airport. His business interests demand flights to hundreds of cities, and he prefers to travel by air. He lives in an attractive penthouse atop the Alcazar hotel in Miami, and dispenses delightful hospitality therein.

Traveling in a leisurely fashion towards Atlanta from Miami are Mrs. Carson Sewell and Mrs. Bolling Sasnett, so Sally hears. They were overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Burnett at Rockledge, where the Burnetts are in residence.

Turquoise blue crepe, with hat, sandals and bag to match, composed the stunning outfit worn to the Surf Club in Miami by Dorothy Dodd Satterthwaite. The sports frock was buttoned with black buttons. Offsetting her striking costume was the yellow sports dress of Mrs. Gus Dodd, who donned a yellow top coat collared with sable, to protect her from the stiff breeze from the ocean.

A white crepe sports frock and a red hat were chosen by Julia Dodd Lynch to wear to the Surf Club luncheon with her sister and mother.

Along about the middle of March, Mr. and Mrs. Dodd and Dorothy and Bill Satterthwaite will motor to Orlando to spend a week. The fishing grounds abounding in the middle of Florida will attract these Atlantans, who are devotees of this intriguing sport and like to angle for fish in the fresh water lakes.

Reid—Moon. LAGRANGE, Ga., March 7.—The marriage of Miss Doris Reid and William Freeman Moon was quietly solemnized on Saturday at the Baptist parsonage, with Rev. Willie E. Howard, pastor of the First Baptist church, performing the ceremony in the presence of the immediate families and a few close friends.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Moon left by motor for a wedding trip, after which they will be at home here with the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Reid, on Hill street.

The bride, who is the younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reid, is a sister of Mrs. Leon Hand and Morgan Reid, of Newnan, and Walter Reid Jr., of LaGrange. She holds a position in LaGrange with the Family Finance Company.

Mr. Moon is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Moon, of Atlanta. Misses Doris and Estelle Moon, also of Atlanta, is his brother. Mr. Moon is employed in the Callaway Mills office here.

Among the out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mrs. H. C. Moon, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Moon and Misses Doris and Estelle Moon, all of Atlanta; Mr. and Mrs. Leon Hand, of Newnan, and Mrs. A. Frank Holmes, of Montgomery, Ala.

Win One Class. The Win One Wesley class of the First Methodist church, Miss Janet Head, teacher, will hold the class dinner on Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock in the recreation room of the church.

Memorial Service Marks Evening Session of Woodmen Convention

A memorial service for departed members featured the evening program of the Woodmen Circle convention which opened here Thursday at the Ansley hotel for its fortieth anniversary meeting. The service was presided over by Mrs. Clara B. Cassidy, state manager, and directing the memorialists were members of the Dora Alexander Talley Guards, Maple Grove 86, led by Miss Myrtle Hardy, state captain.

The memorial was held for the late Mrs. Mary E. La Rocca, national president of the Woodmen Circle, and all members who have passed away since the 1931 convention was in session. Mrs. Dora Alexander Talley, who succeeded Mrs. La Rocca as national president, gave the memorial address. Harp selections were rendered by Mrs. J. J. Dismore.

The opening session of the convention held Thursday morning was featured by an address by Mayor James L. Key, who predicted that women will play a large part in future law-making. He welcomed the 4,000 members of the convention who have gathered here for the three-day session, and praised the organization and its aims. "Building" is the theme of the convention and much attention is centered on the work of character building for the youth of the land.

Miss Frances Womac Becomes Bride Of Mr. Wilson at Ormewood Church

The marriage of Miss Louise Frances Womac and Jack Lloyd Wilson was an impressive event taking place Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Ormewood Presbyterian church.

Rev. W. E. Crane, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony in the presence of a gathering of relatives and friends of the young couple.

Palms, ferns and cathedral candelabra holding burning tapers were used in effective arrangement as the decorations in the church and on the altar was placed burning tapers. Pew reserved for members of the families were marked by bunches of lilies tied with white satin ribbons.

Acting as ushers were C. Burus Womac, W. M. Carter, J. B. Botenreiter, Charles Wilson and Gene Kirkland. Miss Inez Womac acted as maid of honor for her sister, and Mrs. Ralph Dempsey was the bridesmaid. They were both gowned alike in aqua marine crepe fashioned along princess lines and worn with a short jacket of the same material. Their hats were turban effect of the same shade, and they carried large arm bouquets of pink roses.

Entering with her father, James Elberry Womac, by whom she was given in marriage, the bride was met at the altar by the bridegroom and Ralph Dempsey, who acted as best man. She was beautiful in her wedding gown of bluish satin made along becoming princess lines. She wore a small maine hat of the same shade, and carried a sheaf of calla lilies.

Mrs. Womac, mother of the bride, was handsomely gowned in black crepe trimmed in gold cloth, with hat to match, and wore a shoulder bouquet of gardenias. Mrs. Wyatt Wilson, mother of the bridegroom, wore a black crepe model with hat and other accessories to match. Her flowers were gardenias.

During the evening the young couple left for their wedding trip and upon their return will reside in Atlanta.

Washington Seminary Club To Give Party

On Thursday evening, March 21, at 8 o'clock, in the Washington Seminary auditorium, the Maque and Wig Club will present the dramatic comedy "Her Husband's Wife." The play is under the direction of Miss Ruth Draper, head of the dramatic club. The fact that Miss Draper is the director is ample assurance that the play will be well worth seeing and fine entertainment.

Those taking part are Misses Gladys Irene Cook, Alice Armstrong, Marion Walker, Rowland Murray, Jimmy Dougherty, Bill Rosenmond. A fashion show will be given between the acts through the courtesy of George Mue & Co. There will be a charge of 35 cents for admission.

Party Planned At Druid Hills Church.

An interesting event of Friday evening will be the "get acquainted party" at which the Susannah Wesley and Men's Bible classes of the Druid Hills Methodist church will entertain, honoring a large group of new members. These Sunday school classes are among the largest in the city, numbering several hundred members. Mrs. A. G. Maxwell is teacher of the woman's Bible class and Colonel W. P. Bloodworth is the men's teacher. Mrs. Frank D. Johnson has served as president of the Susannah Wesley class. Dr. John B. Pennick is president, respectively, and the roster of officers include some of the most prominent people in the city.

Mrs. W. Earl Quillian is general chairman of arrangements and will be assisted in entertaining by the members of the executive board of the Susannah Wesley church. Dr. John B. Peters, pastor, will make a short address and an entertaining program of songs and stunts has been arranged. Husbands and wives of the members of both classes are invited and the guests will assemble at the church at 7:45 o'clock.

Christian Church Honors Workers.

On Wednesday evening, the First Christian church honored two of its most faithful Sunday school workers, Mrs. A. M. Belding and Mrs. J. B. Peters, who have served for 28 years as superintendent of the primary department, and Mrs. Benton George, who has been the superintendent of the junior department for about 25 years, both of whom have recently retired from their offices. The usual church night supper was served with these two women and all others who have served in their present positions for 10 or more years as honor guests.

Thomas A. Moye, the superintendent of the school, presided. A number of addresses expressing appreciation were made, concluding with messages from the Rev. C. R. Stauffer and Professor J. P. Downing, chairman of the educational committee. Each received a beautiful loving cup presented by the school. Mrs. Alice Eates is the new superintendent of the junior department and Miss Marie Townsend has been appointed superintendent of the primary department. These two departments conduct an expanded session continuing over the two hours each Sunday morning.

T. J. C. Club Party.

The T. J. C. Club members will be the sponsors of the Atlanta Youth Judean council at a tea-dance, March 10, from 3 to 6 o'clock at the Jewish Educational Alliance. This dance is only one of the gala affairs planned by the council for young Judeans month. There is no admission charge and young Judeans and their dates are invited to attend.

A novel floor show has been arranged, featuring Miss Natalie Hankin, little Miss Shirley Yudelson, Miss Bernice Shanker and Miss Mira Hurwitz. Members of the T. J. C. Club who will act as hostesses are Miss Frances Pazel, president; Miss Sybil Seligman, vice president; Miss Regina Hurwitz, recording secretary; Miss Goldie Sisselman, corresponding secretary; Miss Lillian Solomon, treasurer; Miss Dorothy Winer, Miss Bea Reisman, Miss Hermina Boaz, Miss Helen Greenbaum, Miss Rosalie Klein and Miss Rose Schlaffer.

SOCIETY EVENTS

FRIDAY, MARCH 8.

Georgia Kappa Alpha dance at the chapter house of Epilion Chapter at Emory University.

Atlanta Alumni Association of the S. A. E. fraternity will entertain in celebration of Founders' Day at a dinner-dance at the Piedmont Driving Club.

Mrs. George Griffin and Mrs. J. Elliott Cooper will be co-hostesses at a tea at the home of Mrs. Griffin on Alden avenue, honoring Miss Martha Lee Bowman and Anne Boyd Croxton, debutantes.

Mr. and Mrs. Noel Stowe will entertain at an evening party complementing Miss Elizabeth King Smith and her fiancé, James Bullock Crew.

Miss Ellen Douglas entertains, honoring Miss Marian Hammond, bride-elect.

Joseph Habersham Chapter, D. A. R., sponsors a benefit bridge party at 2:30 o'clock at Habersham Hall, 270 Fifteenth street, northeast.

"Court of State" will be presented at the Shrine mosque, honoring Mrs. Dora Alexander Talley, of Omaha, Neb., national president of Woodmen Circle, and delegates to the state convention.

An educational art exhibit will be held in Lena H. Cox school auditorium at 7:30 o'clock.

Benefit bridge in Storch's tea room by Lee-Roosevelt Auxiliary No. 13, United Spanish War Veterans.

Business Woman's Bible class of Capitol View Baptist church holds a "home-coming" banquet at 7 o'clock at Corowanna Lodge, Donnelly avenue, S. W.

Waldo M. Slaton Post No. 140, of the American Legion, sponsors a minstrel show at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of North Fulton High school. The P. T. A. of North Fulton High school is co-sponsor of this presentation.

Kiddie revue will be presented by the Colonial Hills P. T. A. at 8 o'clock at the East Point city auditorium, directed by Miss Helen Johnson.

Susannah Wesley and Men's Bible classes of the Druid Hills Methodist church give a party at the church.

Lynwood Jester School of Art presents a spring recital at 7:30 o'clock at the parish house of the Church of the Incarnation.

De Molay holds the quarter annual dance at Blackrock Country Club at 9 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hill will be honor guests at dinner to be given at Wicoma inn this evening.

Miss Louise MacIntyre entertains at a luncheon at 1 o'clock at her home on Polo drive, honoring Mrs. John McCord, a recent bride.

Friendly Eight Club.

Mrs. W. G. McCoy entertained the Friendly Eight Club on Tuesday with luncheon celebrating the second anniversary of the club.

Those present were Mesdames E. C. Dempsey, R. R. Petree, J. R. Duke, W. C. Lane, H. C. Candlish, M. D. Glover, Calvin Walters, W. G. McCoy.

Mrs. John McCord Honored at Parties

Among the interesting entertainments marking the social calendar for today is the luncheon planned by Miss Louise MacIntyre at her home on Polo drive in Ansley park, for Mrs. John McCord. The attractive honor guest is the former Miss Lawson McAfee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer McAfee, and her wedding was recently solemnized.

Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Anderson were hosts at an informal supper on Sunday evening at their Avery drive residence with Mr. and Mrs. McCord as central figures. The guests included a group of the younger contingent.

Mrs. McCord will be honored at a party to be given by Mrs. Nathan Brandon, the date to be announced. Mrs. Morris Brandon Jr., and Miss Ruth Hunnicutt will entertain as complimentary gestures to Mrs. McCord, the dates to be announced.

Miss Butt Honored By Misses Burnett.

One of the first of a series of parties in honor of Miss Louise Butt, bride-elect of March, was a lingerie show given March 2, by Misses Emma and Jewel Burnett at their home on Westwood avenue. The hostesses were assisted by their mother, Mrs. R. P. Burnett, and by Mrs. C. E. Butt and Miss Rebecca Butt, mother and sister of the bride-to-be.

The living rooms were decorated in pink and blue and fern. Favors were tiny clusters of lily-of-the-valley. The bride-to-be was presented a miniature bride and groom. Several contests were enjoyed. Misses Louise Butt, Frances Cooper and Mrs. Mabel Brooks achieving first honors.

Those invited were: Misses Helen Tucker, Kathryn Johnson, Louise Dorsey, Elizabeth Henry, Frances Cooper, Grace Hendrix and Mesdames Stacy Thornton, Sue Cowart, Mable Brooks, Lydia Wilson, Harriett McLucas, Frances Cooper and Mrs. Mabel Brooks achieving first honors.

Circle No. 2 of LaGrange College alumnae will be entertained Saturday afternoon, March 9, at the home of Mrs. Van Landingham in Adamsville, with Miss Peggy Osborne as assisting hostess. Rev. C. M. Lipham will give a talk on a subject which should be of interest to all. Those desiring to attend are requested to meet at the Union Station at 2:15 o'clock.

Household Arts BY ALICE BRIDGES.

It is quite true, the accusation that women buy cosmetics "through the nose." Watch them line up along a cosmetic counter, sniffing everything from eye drops to face powder, and sniffing the corks and covers of the others. But that is sometimes a very serious mistake. A beautiful package is something to be desired, but valuable contents are what you should get for your money.

In buying face powder get one that is finely sifted—as finely sifted as you can afford. Sometimes the number of siftings regulates the price, along with the perfume contained. Sometimes a powder is sifted many times and has no perfume. That, too, helps bring down the price. Good perfume costs money.

I wouldn't advise you to perfume your own face powder as you find that her face becomes blotchy. If this happens to you—it is not a breaking out, only under-the-skin red blotches—see a skin specialist and find out what it is you are using that causes this.

LACY SQUARE QUICKLY CROCHETED. Pattern 5316.

The needlewoman who crochets will know at a glance how simple it is to make this lovely string meditation. And what is more, she can see what choice accessories she can use it with. Scarfs, table cloths, chair back sets are but a few of its uses. The square is one that you will know by heart after you have made it but a few times.

In pattern 5316 you will find complete directions for making the meditation shown and joining it to make a variety of articles; an illustration of it, of the stitches needed; material requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents to Household Arts Department, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Things That Make Women More Beautiful

Be Sure That You Get a Face Powder That Is Finely Sifted and Not Gritty

By MIGNON.

This remedy is simple. It happened to me once and in two days it was cleared up because I attended to it immediately and found out that I shouldn't use a perfume I had been using. I put it back of the ears and in the eyebrows and that was where my trouble started. I was told that while it didn't agree with me then, though I had used it for years, I might, within a short time be able to use it again without ill effect. There are sometimes chemical changes in the blood that makes this difference. Never fail to see a good skin specialist when you have any spots or breaking out on your face. Don't say you can't afford it. You can't afford not to do this. The results mean too much to you. Doing their own skin diagnosis is women's greatest weakness whether it is about their health or their complexion.

I can tell you a couple of good face powders if you are interested.

If you want to know where you can purchase any article mentioned in this column please Mignon at The Constitution. Please do not write unless you live outside the city, in which case enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Miss Pearce.

The Annie Bell's Faithful class of South Decatur Baptist church entertained recently at the home of Mrs. W. A. Strickland, honoring Miss Annie Bell Pearce with a towel shower. Present were Misses Annie Bell Pearce, Eddie Mae Rutledge, Elizabeth Kell, Eleanor Plique, Mary Cunningham, Margaret Fincher, Willie Ruth Black, Melrose Black, Velva Hudgins, Verda Daniel, Lucile Brodson, Lillian Pattillo.

Mrs. M. L. Clifton gave helpful suggestions on pruning, stressing the desirability of apparent natural growth for all plants, and the advisability of after-bloom pruning for early spring flowering shrubs. No plants except formally pruned hedges should have the appearance of having been sheared, she said, nor should they be left gaunt with bareness.

An informal round-table discussion followed the program, and the hostess, Mrs. S. L. Landers, served tea.

Snell, Karston, W. G. McRae and others.

Good Taste

By FRANCES MARTEL.

"I have seen many men in dinner jackets wearing a fold collar instead of the usual wing. Is this not incorrect?"

Answer—With a dinner jacket, a man may wear either a bold wing or a fold collar. He must, however, wear a shirt with a stiff or pleated bosom. With an evening tailcoat, he must wear a bold wing collar.

Miss Martel will promptly mail personal answers to questions from any readers enclosing with their questions self-addressed, three-cent stamped envelope.

NANCY PAGE

Hot Lunch for Bridge Party

By FLORENCE La GANKE.

"When a club of 16 meets once a week for lunch and then plays bridge or makes quilts or knits all afternoon, and when the lunch is restricted to one hot dish, one beverage and a dessert it is easy to plan meals for a few times, but before long a person runs out of ideas. That's my state of mind at present, Nancy, and I wondered whether you could give me any ideas."

"Have you had corn fritters and bacon with maple syrup, lime gelatin and cookies? Or friend mull with sausages, baked apples and sponge drops, or old-fashioned bean soup with toasted brown bread and apple turnovers with cheese. Or would you consider an open sandwich with bacon, cottage cheese and the toast with baked custard for dessert? Or corn chowder with toasted crackers, and sliced oranges with coconut and sponge cake. Or noodle rag with spinach and mushrooms and pineapple ice?"

"I have been writing every one of those down as you talked. I am going to surprise the club. I had a good spaghetti dish last time, or at least the ladies all said it was good. Would you like the recipe?"

At Nancy's ascent Lella took a long breath and gave her a recipe for California spaghetti. Have the butcher grind two pounds of shoulder of beef and one-half pound of fresh pork. Put this into one quart of water, with salt and pepper and allow it to cook slowly for an hour. Drain the meat and add two bay leaves, two small red peppers, two dozen stems of rosemary, and cook slowly for one and one-quarter hours. Stir frequently. Cook two pounds of spaghetti in two gallons of boiling salted water until spaghetti is tender. This takes about one-half hour. Drain well. Put the meat and tomato mixture together. Drain the spaghetti and serve it with grated Italian cheese. Or mix and bake in casseroles for 20 minutes.

Nancy has a leaflet on "Bridge Luncheon" menus. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Nancy Page in care of The Constitution, Atlanta, Georgia.

Visitors Honored.

A recent event was the luncheon at which the Iowa Tau National Legal society joined with the trustees of the American Research Institute in entertaining Louis Untermyer, author, lecturer and poet, and his distinguished wife, Judge Esther Antin, of Toledo, Ohio, at the Henry Grady hotel.

Agnes Duffey DeFor, supreme national dean of the sorority, welcomed the guests. Dr. W. F. Melton introduced the honor guests. Helen Dole, Mankin, acting as toastmaster, introduced Alice Denton Jennings, Bernice Denton Pearson and Dolly Lee Butler, members of the board of trustees of the American Research Institute. Miss Jeanette Lane and Victoria Willbanks were in charge of the luncheon arrangements.

Expression Recital.

Pupils from the adult and children's departments of the Atlanta School of Oratory and Expression, 402 Wesley Memorial church building, will be presented in readings, declamation, oration, dramatic sketch, stories and extemporaneous speaking Saturday, March 9, at 11 o'clock. Among the pupils appearing in the program are Miss Mary Anne Schultz, Ovid Bush, Dean Murphy, Miss Mildred Pearson, Sam Maghee, Beverly Magbee, Mildred Harsh, Florence Jones, Lane Watson and Howard Callaway. The public is cordially invited.

HOW I KEEP MY FIGURE

By MADGE EVANS

Fortunately extreme slenderness doesn't become me—therefore keeping my figure is not much of a problem.

Exercise is the only method I use to keep to the weight I desire. Dieting only makes me lose in the wrong places—my face, for example, loses its roundness—while exercise makes me lose where I need to.

Each morning for ten minutes I go through a series of exercises. Just old-fashioned ones like touching my toes, bending and twisting from side to side. I'm most fond of horseback riding. I ride whenever I get a chance. I also play tennis and swim. Once a week I have a massage. But this is more for the stimulation of my skin than for keeping my figure.

I've mentioned above I do not diet, but have three meals a day. The only thing I have for breakfast is black coffee and fruit juice. My luncheon is always light. A salad, milk and possibly an egg in the wintertime.

For dinner, however, I eat everything I want, meat, vegetables, rolls, salad and dessert.

Other than what I have mentioned, I find that my daily activity is the only contributing factor to keeping my figure.

Tomorrow—Norma Shearer. (Copyright, 1935, for The Constitution.)

TORRAS WILL STUDY GRADE CROSSING BAN

Elimination of grade crossings in Atlanta will be studied in a survey to be launched immediately by Raymond W. Torras, engineer-secretary of the city planning commission, it was announced Thursday.

Torras will invite officials of railroads to aid in the work, which will be undertaken with a view to securing federal funds for improvement. The latest drive for a comprehensive plan looking toward elimination of dangerous crossings was initiated by Torras after J. Hough Johnston, former member of the planning commission, who is now state engineer of FERA, called attention to the fact that large sums might become available for such activity.

Kirkwood Civic League Revises Its Constitution

At the meeting of the Kirkwood Civic League on Tuesday the revised constitution and by-laws of the league, prepared under the supervision of Mrs. Kate Green Hess and a committee appointed by the president, Mrs. C. A. Virginia, at the February meeting, were presented to the league and adopted by a unanimous vote.

Mrs. W. T. Whisenand, chairman of the league, reported that the executive board of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs had reaffirmed its support for the Georgia Education Association bill, involving more stringent regulations for compulsory education, proportionate regulation of child labor, and a welfare bill which provides for child placement and care of underprivileged children. Also a bill was presented permitting through May, an ever-increasing array of colorful plumage and a lively chorus of bird voices will brighten the woods, gardens and trees in and near Atlanta, according to statements of Norman Giles Jr., who spoke at the March meeting of the Atlanta Bird Club, at which Miss Berna Jarrard, president, presided.

Members of the club are requested to report early arrivals to Mrs. James C. Oliver, Hemlock street, W. as soon as the bird is seen, giving date, time, place and name of bird.

George Dorsey, whose repertoire includes more than a hundred different bird songs and calls, entertained members of the club with imitative songs and calls. Mr. Dorsey is compiling a list of books suggested for use of bird lovers. They include books for the novice, interested in birds for pleasure or hobby, and for the advanced student. The list when mimeographed will be available from Mr. Dorsey at the club secretary, Norman Giles Jr., 959 Drewry street, N. E.

New names have been added to the membership list of the club. Members representing the Arthur A. Allen Junior Bird Club of Atlanta were introduced. Many inquiries, letters and telephone calls reported by members attest the popularity of the lecture and sound motion picture of bird life presented in Atlanta recently by Dr. Arthur Allen, of Cornell University.

Miss Holland Weds Richard M. Gaines.

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., March 7.—Of cordial interest to a wide circle of friends is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Mabel Holland to Richard M. Gaines Jr., which was solemnized Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Rev. T. R. Kendal, pastor of the Sam Jones Memorial Methodist church, performed the ceremony at the church in the presence of only members of the two families.

The bride, who is an attractive brunette, was gown in blue crepe with a turban of black velvet and a finger-length coat of black fur. Her accessories were in harmonizing tones, and she wore a corsage of pale pink carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Gaines left for a short wedding trip and upon their return will be at home at their apartment with Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Moss. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. PLAYS STRAIGHT THROUGH MONTH

Are there days when you cannot be very active, but must "favor yourself" on account of pain or discomfort due to the time of month? A woman who has learned to depend on Midol escapes a whole lot of suffering!

Perhaps you have heard about Midol tablets and how effective they are, but have feared they contained some narcotic. They do not. So, why go on having a difficult time month after month? Midol always relieves regular pain, often means complete comfort. Why not get some, and try it next time? You'll see it on the druggist's counter—or just ask for Midol.

Rose Garden Club Holds Meeting.

Mrs. Henry W. Smith, assisted by Mrs. Grover Middlebrooks and Mrs. Bauncey Middlebrooks, entertained the members of the Rose Garden Club Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Smith on Woodward way.

A representative number of the members attended the judging school held last week, and Mrs. Willard McBurney gave a report on some of the outstanding subjects discussed. At the model flower show held during the afternoon Mrs. McBurney was a blue ribbon on her arrangement of nandina berries, sprays of cedar, ligustrum japonicum and dried grass.

A small flower show emphasizing line arrangements was held, and the blue ribbon was given to Mrs. W. M. Dunn, who grouped Pissardi plum branches, jonquils and a few ligustrum berries in a fish of a blue-green shade. Mrs. Fleming Law's arrangement of forsythia and mahonia japonica in a green glass bowl was second, and third place went to Mrs. McBurney for her house-grown red poinsettia in a green Chinese pottery vase. Mrs. Law, flower show chairman, announced that the specifications for the April meeting will be for a miniature arrangement to be placed in a space 10 inches wide by 12 inches high.

J. W. Shannon, landscape architect, was introduced to the club members by Mrs. Moreton Rolleston, program chairman. He gave a talk on color combinations in spring and early summer gardens.

Wells—Key.

LAGRANGE, Ga., March 7.—The marriage of Miss Christine Wells and Winfred Key was solemnized Saturday, March 2, in LaFayette, Ala. The bride was gown in a spring model of grey crepe with which she wore a hat of navy blue and matching accessories. She is the daughter of Grover Wells and the late Mrs. Wells, and has many friends in this section.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Key, and is a brother of Miss Esther Key and Kinney Key, both of LaGrange.

Styles by Annette

612 MODISH SHIRTWAIST DRESS WITH NEW SLEEVES.

It's really an adorable style, so fresh and smart looking.

One of the new season's rough crepe silk prints is lovely for this model as originally planned. The attractive pointed collar and cuffs are plain crepe.

It's charming, too, carried out in foulard in diagonal weave, or in one of the new supple woolsens.

Canton or crinkly crepe is also a splendid choice for this simple-to-make dress.

Style No. 612 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18 years, 36, 38 and 40-inches bust. For requirements see pattern envelope.

Send 15 cents for pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. Be sure to state size you wish. The Spring Fashion Magazine is better than ever. Entirely illustrated in color, you will find it a very stimulating fashion editor. There are clothes for cruising and clothes to brighten the lives of stay-at-homes. Many delightful little models for the smaller members of the family. Of course, patterns are obtainable for the designs illustrated. Send for your copy today, the price is 15 cents.

Mail orders to Annette Pattern Department, The Constitution, Atlanta, Georgia.

Friendly Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: I am a young woman in my thirties. For 16 years I have been going with a man who was married when I first knew him. He said he didn't love his wife and I don't think he did. She was a widow with children when he married her but he learned to love the children as his own and he still looks after them and supports them. She has never remarried since their divorce and he goes to see her occasionally. I am afraid she is still in love with him and while he declared he doesn't love her, I can't understand why he insists on seeing her. He offers an excuse for not marrying me the fact that his health is poor and he says that if he ever gets strong he will marry me, if he marries anybody. This has gone on for 10 years and I am getting discouraged. Please tell me what to do. T. T. R.

Answer—A bill is outlawed in seven years, surely a man's vague promise of marriage is worthless after 10 years. If he hasn't regained his health in that time the chances are he won't regain it. If he has used one lying excuse for 10 years and used it successfully he needs no other to think up another. If he still cares enough about his divorced wife and stepchildren to support them and go to see them regularly it is pretty certain that the hold they have on him will never be broken. And if he hasn't loved his girl enough to marry her (though he is legally free) in a decade then she is foolish indeed to believe that he ever will.

It is the old story of a woman's believing what she wants to believe regardless of the facts that scream at her telling her it is all a lie. There is only one thing for you to do, poor deceived woman, and that is to wrench yourself loose from an entanglement that can net you only heartache and disappointment. No matter how bitter the renunciation there is nothing for you to do but to withdraw and let the availing man go back to his wife and children whom he evidently cares for. If by any ghost of a chance he has you in the back of his mind, your separation from him will bring you to the forefront. If he actually cares for you (and it is very doubtful), not seeing you, not hearing from you will make him come to a decision about marriage, one way or another.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Dear Miss Chatfield: I am a young divorcee of 24 with a three-year-old boy. Since my divorce I have been going around with a younger cousin and her crowd. Among them was a boy of 17 who fell in love with me. I have been in a hospital for the last three months and he has been to see me every day and sometimes twice a day. On account of his extreme youth I am embarrassed over it. Please advise me what I ought to do? DIVORCEE.

Answer: You ought to do what you would want an experienced woman to do with your 17-year-old boy: put a stop to his visits and send the young chap out to find his own way. How would you feel if a divorced woman with a three-year-old child were to get your young boy involved in a love affair that could only spell misery and unhappiness to him? You would want to wring her neck and so will this boy's mother want to wring yours. He is a mere baby. He doesn't know B from Bull's foot. Flattered that a woman seven years older than he will notice him and devote him, led on by her to believe that he is a real man, he is being diverted from his study or his work, and worse he is being groomed for a long hard heartache.

You see, my dear woman, being lonely and deceived you are selfishly permitting an inexperienced, defenseless young boy to amuse you at great expense to himself now and in the future. Let him down as easily as you can, but let him down now and finally. CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

Antoinette Taft, 25, attractive and ambitious but unable to hold a job, lives in a drab top-floor San Francisco flat with her sister Brenda and brother Cliff, who are older, her 17-year-old brother Bruce, and their Aunt Meg. In her job-hunting rounds she has an interview with Lawrence Bellamy, editor of the Journal of Commerce, who tells her that while his paper does not carry any news of women which might be written by a woman, he thinks she could have a success. She likes him very much, as does his Brenda later. He's a staid, young thing, as tall as Cliff, not much more than 30, I think, she said, "and very much the gentleman." As the sisters talk, Cliff, who is a bit of a dandy, drops in, asking where Brenda is. He is told that some place in the blue prints for the installation of a switchboard called him suddenly to Sacramento. Barney tries to take part of the blame, saying "It's all our fault, I guess. We did the drawings. Several times he says he must go, but sits on until Brenda leaves the room. He asks Tony whether he saw Barney and she replies that nothing came of the interview. He speaks of a girl in his office, about to marry, who is always punctual and smartly dressed. He leaves when Brenda returns to the room. Tony rails at her failure to get the sort of job she likes. "You'll marry into the store," Tony says, "and you'll be a clerk. You'll never see her cheeks flush recently. May be he's a swell, but he's not a body. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY."

INSTALLMENT IV.

"Oh, Benny, Benny," gasped Tony rushing back to fall at her sister's knees and clutch at her dramatically. "It's the call! Some Mr. Greenwood of the Call! Benny, I wanted to see you tonight—I'm to see him at two tomorrow! He wanted me to come down right now. Twenty-five a week, twenty-five a week, and I'm to try the society column! Oh, Benny, you'll help me, won't you? I mean with the people who come into the store—I mean getting engagements and parties and everything! Oh, Benny, you'll sound so nice! He said he was out of his senses trying to get someone, and I said I couldn't come down tonight."

"What is it?" Aunt Meggy here interpreted dazedly from her doorway. Cliff, brown and pale and tired, was in the hall doorway. "What's all the shouting about?" he asked. Tony enlightened them ecstatically.

"Oh, Cliff, just as I was despairing—I'd been to the Journal today, and there didn't seem a chance. Just as I was despairing, this Mr. Greenwood telephoned from the Call, and he wants me to gather up all the news I can and begin tomorrow—and twenty-five a week, Cliff!"

"That's something like," Cliff said with his slow smile.

"And Cliff, you know I can do it," chattered Tony. "You know I can, Benny! Aunt Sally'll help me, and Mrs. Terry!"

"Want to go down and clinch it?" Cliff asked.

"Oh, Cliff, could we? He really did want to see me, because tomorrow's the day he usually has off, and he said I'd have to scout around and dig up a lot of much for the Sunday page! He sounded so cute!" Tony said in a rush.

"Get your hat on!" said Cliff. "I know a man named Burke who works on the sports section. We'll go down."

"You angel!" Tony called back flying into her room to change. Brenda smiled and looked brother. "She's two girls," Brenda said. "She was down and out five minutes ago, no hope anywhere—she's been telling me what a failure she is."

"Failure, shush! She's only twenty-three," Cliff was lighting a cigarette. "I'd go to go in Sacramento, darling!"

"Oh, I think I butchered the switchboard, all right. However, we think we can work out of it." Tony said when they had left the street car and made a wet run for the lighted doorway of the big building.

"Sure," he said. "I hope Burke's there. He may not be, though."

The elevator flashed up past floors that were dark and deserted at 11 o'clock at night. They stepped out on the top floor, and everything was brightly animated and exciting here, and Tony looked about her with avid interest at the glass-top doors that were opening and shutting continually upon seething inner apartments. A quiet girl at a telephone switchboard looked up.

"Mr. Greenwood?" The girl repeated the name into a black rubber mouthpiece. "There's a Miss Taft to see you here."

Sitting back she said, "You can go right in. It's room eighteen."

Tony followed her brother dazedly. Here was room 18, with City Room letters in black on the door, and Charles Greenwood set modestly in a corner below it.

Cliff opened the door and Tony had her first look at the city room. It angled the entire width of the building two sides; the third side, she was presently to learn, was the Sunday paper department and the fourth was variously divided by the library, the files, the photographers' lairs. Down below were the business offices, imposing in heavy chairs and eucalyptus paneling; up here everything was confusion, disorder, haste.

The instant her nostrils caught the first scent of it she knew that she had longed here; that this was her world, her battlefield, where she and her men were everywhere; shouting, smoking, typewriters were clicking; there was a rippling sound as paper was torn from them; there was a constant eccentric chatter of a telegraph machine from the wide littered desk marked Associated Press. Tony saw men wearing green eye-shades, eyeglasses, saw one very handsome big dark fellow scolding away about something to an older man at a corner desk.

Mr. Charles Greenwood was a dark little weasel of a man who occupied a corner desk shut away from the general office only by a nicked and battered fence scolding away about something to an older man at a corner desk.

"Say, come down anyway? Good girl," said Mr. Greenwood looking at Tony alertly. "Sit down here. Glad to meet you, Mr. Taft. Sit down. Say—looka what I'm doing here—the Sunday page. It's a hell of a mess!" Tony laughed, liking him at once, sensing instantly that this common little noisy agitated man would like her.

The desk before the city editor was heaped high with the society pages of recent Sunday papers. He had evidently been clipping and pasting desperately; he indicated a drawer full of unprinted looking letters.

"We got to have a page of this stuff, good," Greenwood said, "for Madame in Dues. That's the swell stuff, see—the Burlington crowd, the la-di-dabs, see? You know that crowd, don't you?" he broke off to ask suspiciously, looking up at Tony.

"Well," Tony answered firmly without the flicker of an eyelid.

"Well, now, look here. You'll have Dues' desk; it's what the boys called our desk. That's the swell stuff, see—the Burlington crowd, the la-di-dabs, see? You know that crowd, don't you?" he broke off to ask suspiciously, looking up at Tony.

"Well," Tony answered firmly without the flicker of an eyelid.

"You said that you thought you could handle it." His eye was suspicious again.

"I can."

"Understand that every Thursday we've got to have a whole page of it with two photos?"

Her heart failed for a second.

"Certainly," Tony said with a reassuring nod.

"You can clip a lot of it for tomorrow, see?" the harassed Greenwood further explained. "Look over the papers—I've got the Oakland papers here too—and pick out what you like. You'll see, you'll see. I won't be here, but you give it to Mr. Florence—he's that drunkunkin' crook over there."

"All right," the fat man at the next desk said significantly. "All right."

"Get it all together and hand it in before ten tomorrow night. And you'll have got your own column too—say about sixteen items—get 'em good, because we're been running down lately and the old man was raising hell about it today. You run round among your club stuff—women scraping, bring that in, that's always good. Keep your eyes open—oh, and by the way, you'll do that dance down at the Burlingame Club next week, will you?"

"Certainly," Tony agreed, her head spinning.

"All right then—then take all this stuff along to your desk—MacGrath!"

She got up, took her hat, and helped Miss Taft to take all this stuff to the Duck's desk, will you, and rustle her up a typewriter somewhere, and get her some paper. She's going to do our Sunday page tomorrow, and boy, will it be good! All right, Miss Taft, I'll see you Friday; keep your shirt on and the boys for anything you want. Oh, by the way, root us out a couple of good pictures tomorrow for Sunday. I didn't get round to it."

Tony and Clifford and the amiably burdened MacGrath went to a cluttered desk by a back window that was trickling rain. Everyone looked at them; Tony did not dare raise her eyes.

She found her new domain frightfully dirty, and the typewriter frame empty.

"I'll have Larsen get you a typewriter downtown," said MacGrath in an embarrassed apology. "There isn't a decent one on the floor. Looky, here's the book they keep the names in—who's in society, and who's married to who's sister, and all that."

Tony clutched the shabby leather record eagerly.

"Oh, that'll be priceless!"

"He's all right," confided MacGrath with a jerk of his head toward the city editor's desk. Only he cusses a lot."

"Could I—just to get this stuff in order—could I come down tomorrow early—say about ten?" she asked. "He told me to come in at one. But I'd like to get started—"

"Oh, gosh, come at seven if you want to," MacGrath said with a stare. "Is there a man named Burke working here?" Clifford now found a lull in which to ask.

"Sure," Spike, where's Burke? He's usually in the sports, said MacGrath. "Here he is."

He snote the shirked back of a stalwart young man who was washing not only his face but his hair with soap and water, and he was turning about to the elbow, at one of the basins. This person, dripping and sudsy, turned about with a loud "Quit!"

V—Meteor Dangers.

Of all the thousands of meteor showers which have struck the earth, I have heard of only one case of a person being killed by them; but in other cases, narrow escapes have been reported.

One reader told me of a meteor which broke through a window in a railway coach, but did no harm to anyone.

Every day and every night of the year, the earth is "battered" with meteors. Most of them, I am glad to say, are worn to ashes before they reach the ground.

Some persons still speak of meteors of really great size are believed to have struck the earth.

Thousands of millions of meteors exist in space. They appear to revolve about the sun. It is likely that one of them, or a part of broken comets.

When a meteor strikes the air around the earth, the meteor is "rubbed" until it becomes very hot. Its temperature rises to 10,000 degrees or more. As a result, we never see a "streak of fire" in the sky at night; and persons who do not know the facts think that a "star" is falling.

Meteors probably strike the earth as often in the daytime as at night; but they are plainly in view after dark. If you study the sky almost any night, you will see one or more meteors streak the sky. Sometimes there are "meteor showers."

Twenty-seven years ago a giant meteor, or swarm of meteors, landed in a lonely section in Siberia. It is estimated that 40,000 tons of stone and metal struck the soil. Hundreds of trees were knocked down by the force of the impact.

What would have happened if the Siberia meteor, or meteor swarm, had struck New York City? Tall buildings might have been knocked to pieces. The lives of many human beings no doubt would have been lost.

Meteors are a danger to us, at least a slight danger; but there is no use letting them worry us. Meteor cars are far more dangerous to our lives.

'GEORGIA' FACES 'JACKETS' TODAY IN LAST GAME

Mehre's Squads End Six-Week Spring Training Period Today.

By Bill Ray.

ATHENS, Ga., March 7.—Closing six weeks of spring training for the same manner that the 1934 Bulldogs closed the football season last December 1, "Georgia Tech" will play "Georgia Tech" in Sanford stadium Friday afternoon.

It will be the final exhibition game between the two picked teams. The kickoff will be at 4 o'clock, eastern standard time, and there will be no admission charge.

Pleased with the idea of having exhibition games on Friday afternoon, Coach Harry Mehre will probably adopt the plan as a regular feature of next year's spring training program.

Two practice games have been played so far this season with "Alabama" and "Tulane" as the mythical opponents of the Bulldogs.

RAIN HAMPERERS.

Rain this week has kept the Bulldogs from getting in the usual number of scrimmages but the squad has been divided into two equal parts by the coaches.

Coaches Vernon "Catfish" Smith and Weems Baskin will coach "Georgia," which will be made up from the freshmen and sophomore teams.

Coaches Rex Enright and Tiger Bennett will head the Yellow Jacket team. Coach Harry Mehre, who walked many a mile during that memorable Georgia-Georgia Tech game on December 1, will have a comfortable seat in the press box.

Friday's game will witness the climax of the six-week fight for the first string fullback job that Maurice Green, Johnny Jones and Bill Hartman have been waging. Green seems to have the edge at the present on account of his kicking ability, but Hartman and Jones are pushing him to the limit.

HARTMAN, JONES.

Bill Hartman, the former G. M. C. star, and Johnny Jones will alternate at a fullback and halfback post during the "Georgia" and "Georgia Tech" game. They will probably play both positions next spring as Coach Mehre is not taking any chances on the injury jinx crippling his halfback ranks as it did last year.

Charley Treadaway, the debonair quarterback who brought thrills to the spectators last week at "Tulane's" quarterback, will be calling the signals for "Georgia Tech" Friday.

Those fortunate who witnessed the Georgia-Georgia Tech battle last year will remember that it was the daredevil tactics of Treadaway that gave Georgia a 7-0 victory when it seemed certain that the two teams would battle to a 0-0 tie.

Treadaway, getting the breaks on a bad kick, called a pass and the ball went to Henry Wagoner, the Bowditch, Ga. right end, who made the touchdown.

Heading the "Georgia" backfield will be Lewis Young, the Memphis, Tenn., quarterback whose piano legs carry the strength of a pile driver when it comes to running and tackling.

KENTUCKY WINS ITS FINAL GAME

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 7.—(P) Coach Adolph Rupp's University of Kentucky Wildcats brought their basketball season to a close here tonight with a 46-29 triumph over Xavier University, of Cincinnati, a team that fought Ohio State to an overtime period earlier in the season.

The Wildcat had conquered Xavier, 40 to 27, in a game earlier this season at Cincinnati and proved that victory no fluke by the manner in which they handled the Musketeers tonight.

Leroy Edwards, big center of the Kentucky team, made 16 points in the first half despite the fact that he was ill. Edwards, unable to talk because of a bad cold, made all of his points in the first half. He played only about two minutes of the second period, and was taken to a hospital after the game.

EMORY TOURNEY STARTS TODAY

The annual inter-organization basketball tournament will get under way this afternoon at Emory with the Alpha Epsilon Pi team facing the Lambda Chi Alpha quintet at 4 o'clock.

Thirteen fraternity teams and the Campus Club are entered in the tournament. The quarter-final round will be held Monday afternoon with the semi-finals scheduled Tuesday and the final round Wednesday.

Chi Phi, winners of the tourney for the past several years, is favored to repeat. Kappa Alpha offers a strong team.

The pairings follow:
Alpha Epsilon Pi vs. Lambda Chi Alpha (4:00); Sigma Alpha Epsilon vs. Sigma Chi (5:00); Pi Kappa Alpha vs. Alpha Tau Omega (7:00); Campus Club vs. Phi Gamma Delta (8:00); Phi Delta Theta vs. Pi Kappa Phi (9:00).

Sargent Scores 68 at East Lake

Some very good scores were recorded over the 7-hole course Thursday afternoon.

Al Sargent had the best score of the day when he toured the No. 1 layout in sub-par figures, registering a 68 for the 18 holes. He was playing in a foursome with Travis Johnson against Bertie Moore and Stan Hol-ditch. Moore bagged a 71, while Johnson and Hol-ditch scored 75.

Charlie Yates and Charlie Danahall scored 71 in a round with Professor Dennison, of Tech, and Bill Ginn. Dennison was paired with Yates.

Bobby Jones was out for a long afternoon of practice for the coming masters' tournament at Augusta. Bob spent quite a bit of time tuning up his putting and short game.

There was a nocturnal gathering at Fort Valley. Lots of conversation.

Someone mentioned that the town was the home town of Dick Hartley and that he was the first southern football player to score on Yale. In the past five years, of course, the lads at Athens have made a habit of scoring on Yale almost any time they were in the mood.

"It was against Yale and the game was played in 1923," said one.

"It wasn't that year, it was 1922," said one.

"I saw the game," said another, "and it wasn't Yale, it was Harvard, and the game was played in 1919."

"I ought to know," said another, "I roomed with him at college and it was against Yale and it was 1921."

Money began to appear. There were dollar bills and $5 bills. Mr. Hartley, who is off in New York or Paris or somewhere, was the innocent cause of an argument which reached the boiling point.

They crowded around your correspondent.

"What year was it and what team?" they asked, eyes glinting and voices loud. There is no argument like one which grows up about a sports topic.

It was embarrassing, being in the trade, to plead ignorance. But this corner could offer no help. More money came out. The Yale supporters were betting the Harvards. It sounded like a joint alumni meeting. No one present had attended either institution.

It was solved by putting in a telephone call to Athens and Dr. S. V. Sanford, who has more facts stored away in his head than any other living mortal. He never forgets.

"It was the Harvard-Georgia game of 1921," said Dr. Sanford, who was director of athletics at the time. "It was Georgia's first intercollegiate game in the east. The Yale series did not begin until the next year."

A GREAT GAME.

"It was a great game," he said, continuing pleasantly, despite the fact he had been called from sleep. "We should have won it. Harvard scored when Bradford blocked a kick and Fitts recovered it and ran for a touchdown. They couldn't score through our line, on passes or around the ends.

"Georgia's touchdown," continued the gentleman at Athens, "was scored on a beautiful forward pass following a double pass. That play isn't new. H. J. Stegeman, who was our coach, was using it then. Dave Collings passed to Jim Reynolds and he passed it to Dick Hartley, who made a great catch and scored a touchdown. Artie Pew kicked the point.

"And then," said Dr. Sanford, his voice coming sadly over the wires, "a fellow named Pfaffman kicked a field goal from an impossible angle to beat us, 10 to 7. But Hartley was the man and it was the Harvard game."

VANDERBILT-HARVARD.

There were two Vanderbilt men present. "Hartley wasn't the first southern player to score a touchdown on a Big Three team," said one. "Vanderbilt played Harvard in 1912 and scored. I think it was 9 to 8 for Harvard."

"Was that the score?" asked the crowd.

It was most embarrassing. The next time I go traveling I will include all the record books in the traveling kit. The crowd looked a little scornful.

"It was 9 to 8, all right," said the Vanderbilt man. "So where do you get that stuff about Georgia being the first team to score a touchdown against Harvard?"

But an investigation of the records show the Vanderbilt man was wrong. The Georgia record stands. Vanderbilt was defeated by Harvard, 9 to 3. Vanderbilt was the first southern team to score against Harvard, but it was no touchdown. Zack Curlin booted a field goal to give the Commodores their three points.

The Commodores were the first team to play Big Three teams.

Vanderbilt tied Yale, 0 to 0, in 1910, when Yale had a great team. The Harvard game was two seasons later. Lewie Hardage was injured, playing part of the game with a broken ankle bone.

THE NEW SPEED RECORD.

Sir Malcolm Campbell dashed twice through his measured mile yesterday, reaching 281 miles an hour with the wind and having an average speed of 276 miles per hour, four above his old record.

This is speed which rivals that made by fast airplanes, although the racing planes, of course, make much faster time. The new type transport ships cruise at close to 200 miles an hour.

Campbell's speed has come to be accepted rather casually despite the mighty drama of the trials, one man driving five tons of metal at better than 280 miles an hour. The 300-miles-an-hour mark, Campbell's real goal, seems impossible with his present car. It doesn't prove anything, this speed, except that Sir Malcolm Campbell's nerves are of iron.

Death never is very far from him when he makes those runs.

It happens to be his hobby and he isn't thinking of proving anything by it, except that such speed is possible. He finances his own trials. The present effort, which boosted the world speed mark by four miles, cost him about $50,000. The tires on the car, incidentally, cost about $500 each and are not fit for more than one run.

LET "THEESA JEEM" SETTLE IT.

I do not see why the Greeks have not thought of a method of settling their little war. Jim Londo, the world's champion rassler, should be sent over immediately to clean it up.

GENEROUS JACOB RUPPERT.

Colonel Jake Ruppert, who gave Babe Ruth to the Braves, probably realizes now that he gave away a very valuable bit of property. Thousands pack the stands to see Babe and the Braves in Florida. And when the baseball season begins a lot of the Yankee fans will desert the stadium for the Polo field where the Braves will be meeting the Giants of Bill Terry.

Laurens Basket Title All Four Favorites Won by Carmel Girls Reach Semi-Finals

DUBLIN, Ga., March 7.—Before an estimated crowd of 2,000 fans the Mount Carmel girls defeated Rents for the championship of Laurens county in the new Cadwell gymnasium in the county tournament.

The Mt. Carmel girls swung into an early lead and held it throughout the game, ending with the score 33-22. During the past season the Mt. Carmel girls have played 27 games, losing two, and trying one, only later to defeat the same teams to which they had lost and tied.

Woodard, Walters and Vickery, all of Mt. Carmel, were named for the all-tournament team.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 7.—All four favorites advanced to the semi-finals of the annual Florida East Coast Women's Golf tournament here today.

Maureen Orcutt, of Englewood, N. J., defeated Mrs. J. S. Fuller, of St. Augustine, 5 and 3; Mary Rogers, of Jacksonville, defeated Mrs. D. Smith, of St. Augustine, 4 and 3; Jean Baker, of Providence, R. I., smothered Mrs. C. R. Hirschbach, of Cleveland, Ohio, 6 and 5; and Marion Miller, of Lexington, Ky., advanced 3 and 1 over Dorothy Gardner, of Steubenville, Ohio.

The victory carried with it a $1,500 cash award and a leg on the Robert W. Bingham cup, and great joy to her owner, H. M. Curry Jr., of Pittsburgh; her handler, Frank B. van, and to the Homewood Kennels, Waynesboro, Ga., where she was trained.

The new "Queen" had two covey finds, and a number of singles in an outstanding 30-minute run-off heat, to climax a class performance in a three-hour heat on the opening day.

The "Flirt," as she is known, found her first covey in 100 yards. She immediately sought out the single birds from her find, and was moved on down the course after finding and stylishly pointing one of them.

On her next cast, she came up with another covey find. She was running so well her brace mate, Sulu, was almost forgotten.

Soon after, however, Sulu made her "flirt" backed her beautifully. The "Flirt" made her fourth find a few hundred yards away, another single, and climaxed her performance a short while later by stylishly backing Sulu on that dog's second single. Sulu was out of sight of the mounted gallery at the time, and the "Flirt's" positive back proved she was on the job.

Sulu is owned by A. G. C. Sage, of New York, and handled by Clyde Morton.

Blue Willing, a pointer owned by L. D. Johnson, Evansville, Ind., and L. M. Robbitt's setter, Sport's Peerless, also entered the run-off, but had little luck today. The only find by either was one covey the setter flushed.

BRVAN GRANT RANKED FIRST IN DIXIE TENNIS

Lefty Bryan Placed Second and Billy Reese Placed Third.

By Kenneth Gregory,

Associated Press Sports Writer. Bryan M. (Lefty) Grant Jr., of Atlanta, one of the country's outstanding racket wielders, Thursday was listed as the No. 1 player of the south for the 1934 season in the official ranking announced by the executive committee of the Southern Lawn Tennis Association.

It was the second straight year that Grant, ranked 10th nationally, has received this honor. The Mighty Atom, as he is called, is southern champion and holds the national clay courts title in addition to several other crowns.

In competition this year he conquered Sidney Wood and Berkeley Bell, ranked second and sixth nationally, respectively, to win the Miami-Biltmore championship and only recently annexed the Bermuda title.

HENDRIX FOURTH. Robert (Lefty) Bryan, of Chattanooga, Tenn., was ranked second by the association, with William B. Reese, of Atlanta, third, and Arthur Hendrix, of Lakeland, Fla., fourth.

In the official rankings, made by the executive committee composed of 11 representatives from all sections of the south, two junior players—Ramsay Potts Jr., of Memphis, and Ernest Sutter, of New Orleans—were listed first and second, respectively, in the junior singles group and were ranked fifth and sixth in the senior singles.

Miss Beatrice Bryan, of Memphis, southern women's champion and holder of several other titles, was given top rank in the ladies' singles, with second position going to Eliza Cox, of Asheville, N. C., third to Anna Koll, of New Orleans, and fourth to Evangeline McLendon, of Atlanta.

LEDSINGER, HALVERSTADT. Although given top ranking in the singles, Grant was listed third in the men's doubles, with Malon Courts, of Atlanta. First rank in the doubles went to William Ledinger, of Memphis, and Jimmy Halverstadt, of Atlanta, ranked eleventh and twelfth in the singles.

In the ladies' doubles, Misses Bryan and Cox were placed at the top, and Potts and Sutter were favored with the same ranking in the junior doubles.

Tabb George, of New Orleans, was ranked first in the boys' singles, with Billy McGee, of Baton Rouge, second. The official rankings were released through R. S. Fleet, of Atlanta, secretary of the association.

Official Rankings For Dixie Tennis.

The official ranking of southern tennis players for the 1934 season, announced by the executive committee of the Southern Lawn Tennis Association, follows:

SENior SINGLES. 1. Bryan M. Grant Jr., Atlanta; 2. Robert Reese, Atlanta; 3. Arthur Hendrix, Lakeland, Fla.; 4. William B. Reese, Atlanta; 5. Robert Lee, Baton Rouge; 6. Ernest Sutter, New Orleans; 7. Malon Courts, Atlanta; 8. F. K. Roland Jr., Atlanta; 9. Robert Lee, Baton Rouge; 10. Carroll Turner, Miami, Fla.; 11. William Ledinger, Memphis; 12. Jimmy Halverstadt, Atlanta.

SENior DOUBLES. 1. Ledinger and Halverstadt; 2. Turner and Joe Whalen, Miami; 3. Grant and Courts; 4. Potts and Sutter.

LADIES' SINGLES. 1. Beatrice Bryan, Memphis; 2. Eliza Cox, Asheville, N. C.; 3. Anna Koll, New Orleans; 4. Evangeline McLendon, Atlanta; 5. Lila Porter, Mobile, Ala.; 6. Etta Taylor, Miami; 7. Doreen Cannon, Boston, Memphis; 8. Kate Jackson, Bainbridge, Ga.

Smithie Swimmers Meet Emory Today

Tech High and Emory's freshman team will open their 1935 tank season in a meet this afternoon at the Emory pool.

Clay Gray, Everett Bishop, Fritz McDuffie and Charles Rolleston, former prep stars, head the Emory team.

The Emory team has scheduled a match with Boys' High next Friday afternoon at the Emory pool.

TEN-GOAL STAR. NEW YORK, March 7.—(UP)—Winston E. C. Guest remains at 10 goals in the national indoor polo rankings announced tonight. Guest is the only player ever to have been ranked at 10 goals by the indoor association.

Georgia Trained Dog Is Crowned Champion

GRAND JUNCTION, Tenn., March 7.—(P)—A big, rangy female pointer, Homewood Filtrations, was crowned national champion of bird dogs today after a brilliant performance.

The victory carried with it a $1,500 cash award and a leg on the Robert W. Bingham cup, and great joy to her owner, H. M. Curry Jr., of Pittsburgh; her handler, Frank B. van, and to the Homewood Kennels, Waynesboro, Ga., where she was trained.

The new "Queen" had two covey finds, and a number of singles in an outstanding 30-minute run-off heat, to climax a class performance in a three-hour heat on the opening day.

The "Flirt," as she is known, found her first covey in 100 yards. She immediately sought out the single birds from her find, and was moved on down the course after finding and stylishly pointing one of them.

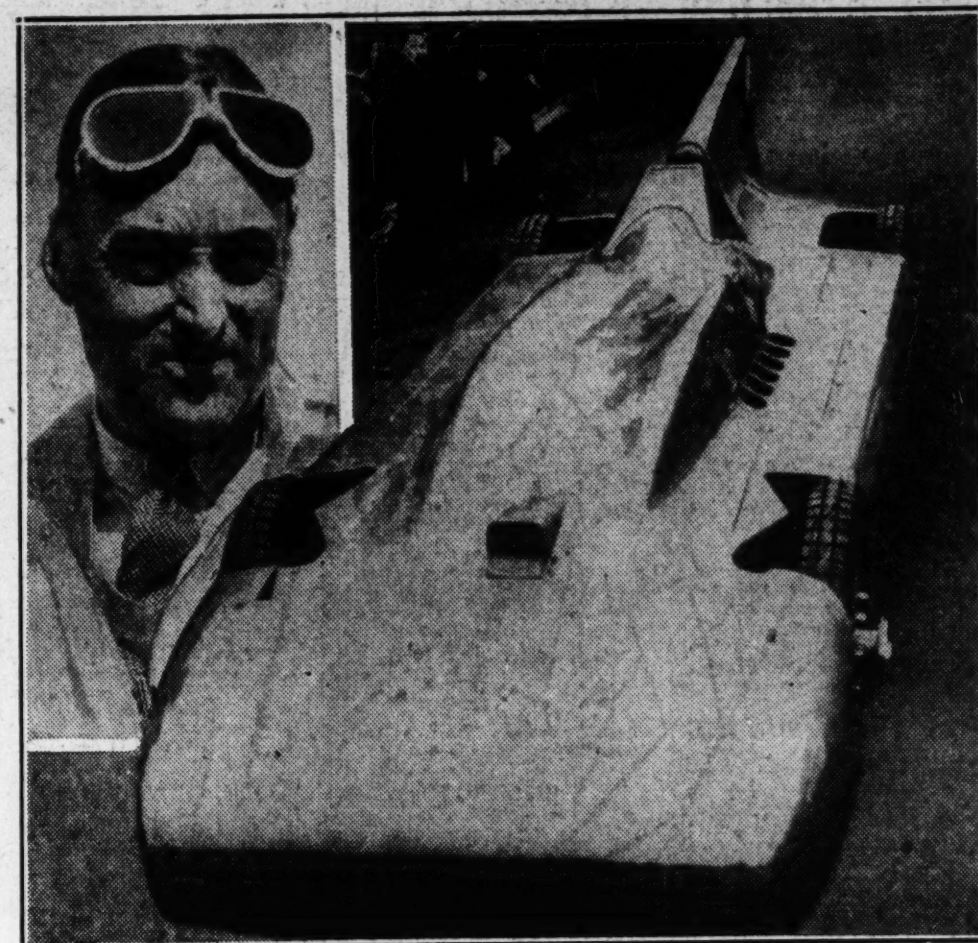

On her next cast, she came up with another covey find. She was running so well her brace mate, Sulu, was almost forgotten.

Soon after, however, Sulu made her "flirt" backed her beautifully. The "Flirt" made her fourth find a few hundred yards away, another single, and climaxed her performance a short while later by stylishly backing Sulu on that dog's second single. Sulu was out of sight of the mounted gallery at the time, and the "Flirt's" positive back proved she was on the job.

Sulu is owned by A. G. C. Sage, of New York, and handled by Clyde Morton.

Daring British Speed King Smashes Own Record

Sir Malcolm Campbell, world's land speed king, wrote another exciting chapter in the history of man's quest for speed yesterday when he sent his mighty Bluebird racer roaring down the smooth sands of Daytona Beach for a speed of 276.816, smashing his own record. He was pleased with the performance. Campbell is shown in the inset. The Bluebird is pictured on the right. Associated Press photo.

'BAMA FENCERS MEET JACKETS

Tech meets the Alabama fencing team at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, in the Navy R. O. T. C. armory. The match will be fenced with all three weapons, foil, epee and saber.

The high point of the match may be the foil match between Captain Swanson, of the Tech team, and Captain Bakst, of Alabama. In the match last Saturday Bakst accounted for six of the bouts won by his team, while Swanson won five, but Swanson lost what proved to be the deciding bout to Bakst.

Swanson had met four times previous to the match at Tuscaloosa, and Swanson had won each time, three with the foil and one time with the saber.

Coach Morinus, of Tech, expressed himself as satisfied with the lineup used last Saturday, and will use the same men. This lineup was Swanson, foils, epee and saber; Mallo, foils and epee; Logomarsino, saber, and Hutcheson, foils.

In addition he will have available two men who could not make the trip to Tuscaloosa, E. F. Fagan, foils and epee, and Robert Williams, a veteran and, next to Swanson, was the most effective foilsmen on last year's team. Fagan is a sophomore.

He is regarded as one of the most promising epee men in the south. He has won three bouts in as many starts, one against Morinus, of the Alabama, and two against Kormilov, No. 1 man on the strong Rollins team.

The Alabama team will have Bakst, fencing foil, epee and saber; Westler, foils and epee, and Harris, fencing foils and epee. Bakst and Harris were members of last year's team. Westler, though fencing this first year for Alabama, is a veteran fencer.

He was captain of the strong Townsend-Harris High School team, of New York, and three years ago was rated as the sixth best fencer in the P. S. A. L.

TIPIST, CADETS ENTER 'BIG SIX'

Marist and Commercial were added to the former "Big Six" baseball lineup at a meeting held Thursday afternoon at Tech High school, according to W. L. Cheney, executive officer of the association.

League play will begin on Tuesday, April 2, with rounds scheduled on Tuesdays and Fridays through Friday, May 17. A home-and-home schedule will be arranged.

A trophy to the winning school or individual gold baseballs will be awarded at the option of the winners of the league.

Present membership in the "Big Eight" includes Boys' High, Tech High, Columbus Industrial, G. M. A. Monroe, Riverside, Commercial and Marist.

The boys' rifle team at North Fulton barely nosed out the girls' team, 470-467, in a school Wednesday afternoon at the school.

George Mizell and George Doyal led the boys with scores of 98. Florida Crawford's 96, and Betty Wil-hoit's 94 were high for the girls.

Umpires Like Him. Mr. Johnson, as previously mentioned, knows both Deans well. And he is particularly fond of the older brother, as are most of the umpires. The general public thinks of Paul Dean, the younger, as being a quiet, unobtrusive young man who does nothing more provocative than acting as yes man for Dizzy.

But Umpire Johnson, like others who have worked behind home plate, is a different matter. He is a bit of a showman, more of a showman than a showman, more of a showman than a showman.

Umpire Johnson saw nothing at all wrong with Dizzy's statement on Ruth, unless one insists on taking it seriously. He looks on it as just another gallant advance bid by Dean in behalf of the box office. Last year, he predicted he and Paul together would win 45 games for the Cardinals. They went better than that and won 49—Dizzy 30 and the kid 19.

"Dizzy was merely giving his color a little play," said Umpire Johnson. He and the Babe will kiss and make up privately. But on the field they will be the greatest of rivals, and the fans will run all over themselves going to see them.

The umpire, it seems, has the right slant on the matter.

Players Rewarded At North Fulton

Gold basketballs and letters were awarded yesterday to members of the North Fulton High teams. Seven boys and nine girls comprised those rewarded for their play.

Those honored were Captain Ed Trice, Bill Reese, Ed Adams, Archie Hamilton, Harry Nichols, Ben Con-horn, and Tom Pendergrass and Captain Don Brown, Sarah Lewis, Elizabeth Travis, Betsy Stringer, Ninette Payne, Myrtle Crawford, Emily Rayne, Myrtle Fouts and Virginia Milner.

Umpire Gives 'Inside' On 'Dizzy' and Moods

Dean Was Merely "Building Up" Babe and Himself With Blast, Harry Johnson Says.

By Jimmy Jones.

It was Harry Johnson, Atlanta's contribution to the umpiring staff of the American association, speaking.

Umpire Johnson, who, we understand, is a very good umpire, was putting in a plug for "Dizzy" Dean, the leading pitcher and irritant of the season, particularly when he was putting the blast on Babe Ruth, the sacred cow of the game.

"Aw, that fellow was just kidding when he went after the Babe that way," Umpire Johnson remarked.

"That's his idea of getting under Ruth's skin before the season starts and, while it sounds a little daffy and off-color, there is real smartness behind it."

Johnson, who has called balls and strikes for both the Dean brothers, Paul in the American association for a couple of seasons and "Dizzy" while umpiring some of the Cardinal spring games, explained his reason for saying so.

While the rest of baseball's greats and near-greats were showering the good-natured and lovable Babe with beatitudes and well wishes, the lone dissonant note in the entire pot-pourri came from the elder Dean out at Memphis.

SHOCKED THE BARE. This while it shocked all and sundry, including Mr. Ruth, was at least different from the lavish handouts elsewhere. And while Dean didn't mean it one particular, it simply means that the baseball public will run the turnstiles hot whenever the Braves and Cardinals hook up for the coming season, particularly when Jerome Herman Dean is going to pitch against George Herman Ruth.

"You've talked to Dizzy Dean a time or so, haven't you?" Umpire Johnson asked. We informed him that we had done so several times. And that we had found him to be a very charming, original and wholesome person who does nothing more provocative than acting as yes man for Dizzy.

Mr. Johnson, as previously mentioned, knows both Deans well. And he is particularly fond of the older brother, as are most of the umpires. The general public thinks of Paul Dean, the younger, as being a quiet, unobtrusive young man who does nothing more provocative than acting as yes man for Dizzy.

But Umpire Johnson, like others who have worked behind home plate, is a different matter. He is a bit of a showman, more of a showman than a showman, more of a showman than a showman.

Industry Sovietization Charged by Weadock

NEW YORK, March 7.—(P)—Bernard F. Weadock, vice president and managing director of the Edison Electric Institute, charged today before a meeting of savings bankers that socialist groups are attempting to sovietize basic industry in America.

"There is in existence in America today an unholy alliance of several interconnected and interrelated socialist groups which by their interlocking activities seek to sovietize all basic industry and work for the common purpose of abolishing private business and establishing government ownership and control."

"Among the more prominent of the organizations constituting an unholy alliance are the Public Ownership League of America, the League for Industrial Democracy, the National Popular Government League, People's Legislative Service and the socialist party."

"They have called meetings of senators and representatives in the public office of a United States senator, and there have advanced their scheme and laid out their campaign of attack against the electric light and power industry and for public ownership of private business and of so-called public super-power."

"Opera is a good show and people will always flock to a good show, be it circus or opera," Hutcherson said.

NEW YORK, March 7.—(P)—The end of the "diamond horseshoe" era in grand opera was hailed tonight by Ernest Hutcherson, composer-pianist, in the reorganization of the Metropolitan Opera.

Hutcherson also is dean of the Juilliard graduate school and one of three appointed to represent the Juilliard Foundation on the board of directors of the Metropolitan Opera Association.

Instead of opera for the wealthy, Hutcherson said he visualized a combination of "first-class performances with a sprinkling of worthwhile novelty" tapping a vast potential audience.

"Opera is a good show and people will always flock to a good show, be it circus or opera," Hutcherson said.

NEW YORK, March 7.—(P)—The Chamber of Commerce, borough of Queens, today invited the motion picture industry to return to the Astoria and Long Island city studios they deserted in favor of California sunshine.

Commenting on the threat of film executives to quit California because of proposed industrial taxation, William J. Russell, chamber secretary said:

"Now that artificial lighting makes sunshine dispensable, the movies ought to return to their ideal market. We can give them any sort of scenery. We are the heart of the theatrical world and industry suffers from no special taxation."
